Mr. Disraeli on the Irish Church Disestablishment Question.

LONDON, Thursday, March 18.

In the House of Commons to-day the bill for the disestablishment of the Irish Church came up for its second reading.

Mr. DISRAELI addressed the House. He commenced by declaring, in the words of the right honorable gentleman who introduced the bill, that this question was one of the most gigantic which had ever been brought before the House, and its consideration demanded much self-control and mutual forbearance. He proceeded to argue that the connection between the Church and State was a necessary one; the former rendered the State religious, investing its authority with the highest sanction. This scheme was likely to destroy religious freedom and toleration. It was a complete violation of the rights of private property, corporate and private property being intimately connected. All acts of spoliation were dangerous; hitherto they had been followed by civil war or something worse. Former confiscation had only enriched the landowners. The strength of Ireland was in her connection with England. The majority of the Irish people were discontented; the settlement of the Church question would be insufficient to quiet their discontent; the land question required settlement. The details of this scheme were complicated and delusive. The present engagements of the Government with the holders of vested interests ought to be paid as regularly and promptly as dividends. If these engagements were compromised there could be no security against further spoliation. The proposed grant to the Maynooth College was directly opposed to the preamble of the bill. Mr. DISRAELI deprecated the course of the present Government as in antagonism to the former policy of the Whig Party, whose aim was civil and religious freedom. In conclusion, he expressed a belief that the bill was most dangerous to the country, but he felt that he could depend upon the prudence and patriotism of Parliament. He then moved that the bill be read a second time six months from to-day.

Mr. WILLIAM H. GREGORY, member for Galway, followed in reply. He taunted the last speaker with his inconsistency, comparing the speech he had just made with his former declarations that the Irish Church was a monstrous grievance to Ireland. Mr. GREGORY, however, did not universally support the bill; he thought an equitable division of the church property among the three religious parties preferable to the present scheme of distribution.

In the House of Peers this evening Lord CAIRNS and Lord CAMPBELL condemned the policy of the Government in releasing the Fenian convicts.

Earl GRANVILLE, Colonial Secretary, explained that the ovations given by their friends to the released Fenians were acts of personal hospitality, not demonstrations of hostility to the Government.

Three Men Murdered on Island No. 10 in the Mississippi.

CHICAGO, Thursday, March 18.

A special dispatch from Cairo to-day says: "As the steamer Belle of Memphis stopped at Darnell's Landing, three men named DARNELL got on board, armed with rifles, but looking in no way suspicious. They told the Captain to land at Island No. 10, as another party wished to come on board there. As the boat landed on Island No. 10, three men by the name of LAIN appeared on the bank, and one came on board with his wife. As he started up stairs he was shot dead by the DARNELLS, who then ran back to the cabin deck and shot the two Lains dead, who were standing on the shore. The DARNELLS then went on shore, and called on the Captain to take good care of Mrs. LAIN, as she had been respectably raised. The cause of the difficulty is not known.

Robbery and Attempted Murder in Canada.

HAMILTON, Ontario, Thursday, March 18.

About 2 o'clock this morning Mr. CHRISTOPHER GRIGGS was aroused from his sleep by some one moving about his bed-room. On inquiring "who's there," a pistol was fired, the shot from which entered the right side of Mrs. GRIGGS and lodged near the spine. She is still alive, but in a precarious condition. The robber had taken gold from under Mr. GRIGGS' head previous to awakening him. A man who boarded in the house has been arrested on suspicion.

The Spanish Troops Defeated at Bayard by the Insurgents—The Spanish Loss Three Hundred Men—The Rebels Concentrated at Gibara Future.

HAVANA, Thursday, March 18.

The insurgents, under AGUILERA and MARMOL, defeated LOPEZ-CANARA at Bayard, killing 50 men. MARMOL was wounded. Lopez returned to Santiago.

A wounded volunteer reports that the Spanish General LATORA was defeated at Villa-Clara on the 22 inst. It will take 10,000 men to restore railroad communication to that place. The rebels drove off the repairers of the road, but without hurting them. They capture supplies and divide them with the poor.

The foreman on a plantation near Puerto Principe has arrived here. He reports that women and children are leaving that city to join the insurgents. The Spanish General LERCIA has warned them to return, or they will be liable to the penalties of military law.

A vague rumor is widely circulated that the insurgents, in combination with some monitors, have captured the port of Santiago de Cuba.

Captain-General DULCE has issued a proclamation making important changes in taxation. The direct taxes on plantations, cattle and country real estate, and the war tax recently imposed on merchants and tradesmen are reduced 50 per cent., and no Government contribution payable within the last quarter of the fiscal year of 1868-69 will be collected. To compensate the Treasury for the loss of revenue incurred by these reductions, the following new duties are imposed: On Muscovado sugar shipped under the Spanish flag, 16c., and under a foreign flag, 20c. per 100 lbs.; on every box of sugar under Spanish flag 75c., under foreign flag 87c.; on every hogshead of sugar under Spanish flag $1, under foreign flag $1 75; on molasses, 50c. per hogshead; on rum, $1 per hogshead. All the above duties are in addition to the war taxes recently imposed on commerce.

THE INDIANS.

The Report of General Custer's Capture Discredited—Indian Troubles in Kansas.

ST. LOUIS, Thursday, March 18.

General MCKEEVER, Adjutant-General of the Department of Missouri, telegraphs to the headquarters at this city his news of General Custer, to March 5, at which time he was starting from Medicine Bluff, Wachita Mountains, to come north. General MCKEEVER adds that no later information could possibly have been received at Fort Lyon, at which port the report of the capture of General CUSTER seems to have originated. An officer from Fort Craig, New-Mexico, just arrived here, heard nothing about his capture until he reached Sinoky Hill Route.

He reports that trouble had occurred with some Pawnees at Ellsworth, Kansas, some days since. Five of these Indians, who are friendly, went into Ellsworth, when some rought demanded their surrender. Two of them submitted, but the other three refused and were shot and scalped. The next day a band of twenty-five Pawnees went into the town and demanded that the murderers of their friends should be given up, or they would burn the town. The troops were sent for from Fort Harker, but the Pawnees escaped. General SURLEY sent some troops after a band of Pawnees who had been depredating; seven were killed.

The same informant says that from 5,000 to 7,000 Navajo Indians were at Fort Wingate, when he left New-Mexico, and constant difficulties were occurring between them and the half-civilized Pueblos.

More Murders by the Alaska Indians.

SAN FRANCISCO, Thursday, March 18.

The steamer Montana sailed for Panama to-day with $600,000 in treasure, of which $201,000 are for New-York, $400,000 for England and $40,000 for France.

The steamer Colorado from Panama, and ship Hesperus from New-York, arrived to-day.

Late Alaska intelligence says that General DAVIS proceeded to the Indian village of Kake, to punish the murderers of two white men. The place was deserted, the inhabitants receiving timely notice of the General's coming. Some articles were recovered belonging to a trading schooner which left Sitka three weeks previous with three men on board. It is inferred the vessel was captured and the crew murdered by Indians, as nothing has been heard from her since sailing.

The steamer John L. Stephens has been seized by the Revenue officers at Sitka for violations of the Custom laws.

A gunboat will be dispatched from Victoria to the scene of the late shipwreck in Nootka Sound. A memorandum book has been received showing the vessel to have been the property of JOHN TREVOR, of Valparaiso.

Conviction of Burglars in Boston—A Presidential Mass Meeting.

BOSTON, Thursday, March 18.

The trial of HARRY JENNINGS and CHAS. H. SPRADGAR, for robbing the safe of Geo. H. Gooding of $15,000, resulted to-day in a verdict of guilty.

JOHN W. COLEMAN, recently arrested on a charge of embezzling funds from the Freedmen's Bureau in Louisiana, was before Judge LOWELL to-day on a writ of habeas corpus and discharged from custody, the Government failing within a reasonable time to present evidence against him.

A mass meeting of the friends of the Prohibitory Liquor law was held in Tremont Temple to-day, presided over by D. C. EDDY. Five or six hundred persons were present, including many prominent temperance men. Speeches were made and resolutions adopted urging a reenactment of the old law, prohibiting the sale of liquor. One of the resolutions sets forth that if the Republican Party of Massachusetts shall seek to save its life by shirking its duty to this great cause, it will lose it, but if it shall risk its life in the fearless discharge of duty, it will ennoble and preserve it.

The Overseers of Harvard College have nominated CHAS. W. ELIOT for President of the University, and will submit his election to a future meeting of the Corporation. He is a son of Hon. SAMUEL A. ELIOT, and at present is a Professor in the Institute of Technology. Mr. ELIOT is 35 years of age, was scholar of the first class's class at Harvard, and represents the "Young American" element among the graduates and friends of the College.

The Georgia Legislature Rejects the Fifteenth Amendment.

ATLANTA, Ga., Thursday, March 18.

A motion was made in the Senate to-day to reconsider the adoption of the Fifteenth Amendment, and the President ruled the motion out of order. An appeal from the decision of the Chair was sustained, and the adoption of the Fifteenth Amendment was defeated, yeas 12, nays 14.

Both Houses have agreed to adjourn sine die to-night.

The Sioux Canada mail the Government Steamer.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Thursday, March 18.

The Buffalo Board of Trade this morning telegraphed a protest against the representatives of Erie County in the Legislature, demanding that the contract system for repairing the canals be abolished forthwith, expressive of disapproval to the present management of the canals; requesting the members of the Legislature from this county to vote for Senator SHAFFORD's bill now before the Senate; denouncing any member of either House who may vote to sustain the present villainous management of the canal interests.

The Union Pacific Railroad—Serious Complaints of Passengers.

CHICAGO, Thursday, March 18.

Fifty passengers from California and Nevada by the Union Pacific Railroad, publish a letter in the Chicago Tribune this morning, in which they complain bitterly of the treatment they received at the hands of the managers of the road while on their journey. They say that, although the road was impassable some ten to twenty days before they succeeded their tickets, yet they were left without information of the fact. They also state that unnecessary cruelty was practiced upon passengers at different points by compelling them to change cabooses, cars, without fire in them, and by forcing them to walk a half-mile or more, at various times, carrying their own baggage, and to change from one train to another, &c. They charge that the principal difficulties arise from the absolute unfitness and incapacity of division superintendents.

As the road is now free from snow blockade, the cause of complaint made by these passengers may be considered removed, and passengers can now go through without detention.

Explosion of a Powder Magazine in Pennsylvania—Three Men Killed.

TITUSVILLE, Penn., Thursday, March 18.

This afternoon, about 5 o'clock, the powder magazine and torpedo factory situated on Church-run, about two miles north of here, exploded, killing three men named A. D. GRIFFIS, W. S. BILLS and HENRY TOMB, and fatally injuring Colonel P. DAVIDSON, the proprietor of the works.

The Fifteenth Amendment Rejected by the Delaware Legislature.

WASHINGTON.

Another Debate in the Senate on the Tenure-of-Office Bill—A Vote to be Taken on the Repeal To-day—Business in the White House and the Departments.

Special Dispatches to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Thursday, March 18.

The debate on the Tenure-of-Office bill was continued in the Senate to-day, but all the proceedings in reference to it were flat, stale and unprofitable. An exception, however, must be made in favor of Mr. MORTON's remarks, which occupied ten or fifteen minutes. He merely enlarged on the point made at the close of his speech yesterday, that the suspension of the act by Senators who maintain that the removing power does not reside in the President, would be a piece of stultification. GARRETT DAVIS then obtained the floor, and kept it until the Senate was weary, the reporters tired out and the galleries frightened away. He talked for nearly two hours and a half, not at the Vice-President, for he slipped out of the chair, but at the President pro tempore, Mr. ANTHONY, and the stenographer of the Congressional Globe. He was very frank in stating that he was in favor of the total repeal, not, however, because he had any particular confidence in President GRANT, but because he believed the law unconstitutional. Senator BROWNLOW, who was too feeble to speak himself, sent a half dozen pages of foolscap to the Clerk's desk with a request that they be read as his argument against repeal. He took the ground that the principle of the bill was sound old Democratic doctrine, a pet measure of the Democracy of earlier days. Senator SCOTT rose to make a speech, but he yielded at 4 o'clock to allow an adjournment motion to be put, which was carried, and the proceedings came to a close, the subject to come up again to-morrow as unfinished business. Mr. TRUMBULL gave notice that he should endeavor to press it to a vote to-morrow.

The question is the sole subject of speculation and comment in the city to-night. The politicians have immediately suspended their office-seeking operations to discuss the question, for the events of the last few days have led them to believe that the whole patronage policy of the Administration will depend on its solution. It is hazardous to give an opinion on the situation. It may be said, however, that delay and debate do not help the suspension cause. Those in favor of repeal are confident so night that they will carry it by a small majority, while the party in favor of the law as it is and temporary suspension, are equally assured that they will prevail. Four or five additional speeches will be made to-morrow on the question, and it is very probable that there will be no adjournment until it is decided one way or the other.

The Representatives, too, are very much concerned at the action of the Senate. A leading member of that branch of Congress expressed the opinion some time ago that it ought to be repealed, because the Senate refused to enforce its provisions. Several speeches have been prepared in anticipation of the suspension being passed, and one or two men, who are regarded as having weight and influence in the House, openly state to-night that they will not concur in a suspension. The feeling on the subject runs pretty high. One Representative is loud in denunciation of the Senate as in his opinion wanting to usurp the Executive power of the Government. A Senator expresses the opinion that the bill will not be sent to the President before ten days at the present rate of progress. It is said that meanwhile the President will send in no nominations, and that no removals will be made if the law should be allowed to stand, as, according to his view, removals cannot be made during session except for causes which would warrant a suspension during a recess or vacation. The office-seekers are excessively wrath at this condition of affairs, and the pressure for a total repeal is very great.

NO NEW APPOINTMENTS MADE.

No appointments were sent to the Senate to-day, and it begins to be understood that the various Departments are determining on persons to fill existing vacancies, and as the appointments, nevertheless, do not get to the Senate, people are coming to the conclusion that the President is awaiting the action of the Senate. The appointment of HENRY D. MOORE, as Collector of Customs, at Philadelphia, gives very general satisfaction, and is spoken of in the highest terms. Senator CAMERON is dissatisfied with it simply because Mr. MOORE is beyond the control of any faction. Senator SCOTT, of the same State, warmly indorses the appointment.

THE NEW-YORK APPOINTMENTS.

There will shortly be some changes in the leading internal revenue offices of New-York. Collector BROOK, of the Third District, has resigned, and it is probable that he will be succeeded by Collector BAILEY, now of the Fourth District, and that General FERRAMONTOS will succeed BAILEY in that District. As to the other appointments no new developments have occurred. The sentiment here among these mainly in the current to judge, is settling down on the constitution of GRINNELL for Collector and General H. J. RAYMOND for Naval Officer.

BILLS SIGNED BY THE PRESIDENT.

The Public Credit bill, after sleeping in the House Committee on Enrolled Bills for two days, was presented to the President this afternoon and promptly signed, being the first bill to receive his approval—a most happy and an appropriate coincidence. Two other bills were also presented, which he approved, to wit: A bill relating to the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad, and the bill striking the word white out of the laws of this District. The effect of the latter is to put black citizens upon the same footing as white citizens as regards sitting on juries and other similar privileges. This bill had suffered a pocket veto at the hands of ANDREW JOHNSON three several times.

THE STATE DEPARTMENT.

If Secretary FISH reached the State Department this morning at 10 o'clock, and remained till nearly 3 o'clock. With the exception of an interval of half an hour's interview with his First Assistant, Mr. HUNTER, the rest of his time was consumed in interviews with members of the Foreign Committees of the Senate and House of Representatives, and other persons of note. Among these were: ELAQUE BEY, the Turkish Minister; JOHN HISE, Consul-General of Switzerland; Senators HARLAN, ABBOTT, FOOT, SCHURZ, PRATT, GRIMES and MCCREERY; Representatives BARKS and UPSON; Judge MILLER, of the United States Supreme Court, and General KILPATRICK.

THE POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT.

Postmaster-General CRESWELL is setting his Department in order as rapidly as he can, considering that his force of assistants is not yet organized. He has taken the mail-agent service in hand, and by an order issued to-day has dismissed all agents not assigned to districts and all not under pay or holding traveling commissions. He also makes the commissions terminate at the end of one year instead of being continuous, as now, in order to secure greater efficiency in the discharge of duty.

THE PUBLIC DEBT STATEMENT.

The next public debt statement will show the precise condition of the Treasury books at the close of business on the 31st instant, instead of being withheld for several days as formerly to await returns from New-York and other important points. This is a radical and important change, and it is thought it will commend itself to business men generally.

REORGANIZATION OF THE NAVY.

The House Committee on Naval Affairs had an informal meeting yesterday. Secretary BOUTWELL and Admiral POWRAY were present, and urged the Committee to report upon the Senate bill for the reorganization of the Navy and the Marine Corps at an early day, and to recommend its passage by the House. The bill was taken from the Speaker's table yesterday and referred to the Naval Committee, which will shortly act upon it.

CHIEF OF STAFF.

The Military Committee of the House, after consultation with General SHERMAN, have resolved to report a bill abolishing the office of Chief of Staff with the rank of Brigadier-General on the staff of the General commanding the armies. This office was created at the same time with that of General, and has never been filled by any other person than General RAWLINS, now Secretary of War. General SHERMAN stated to the Committee that his staff was sufficiently numerous to enable him to dispense with an officer of this rank.

LOUISIANA OFFICE-SEEKERS.

About twenty-five per cent. of the Louisiana politicians are here looking for office. J. M. G. PARKER, a brother-in-law of General B. F. BUTLER, is an applicant for the position of Postmaster at New-Orleans. Mr. LOWELL, Speaker of the Legislature of that State, and Representative STYKER are also seeking the appointment. There are half a dozen applicants for the Assessorship of Internal Revenue, among whom are Major HUTCHINS, late of the Sixth Cavalry, and General MCMILLEN. Mr. DEWRESNE is in the field for the post of Special Agent of the Post Office Department. Judge NEVILLE and one R. R. SHELLEY are the competitors for the Naval Office at New-Orleans.

INDIAN DELEGATIONS.

Among the crowd of applicants for offices and favors here, are four or five Indian delegations, who want their annuities paid. The general disarrangement of all legislative business hinders the settlement of their claims.

WASHINGTON MANUFACTURES.

Mr. SCOTT introduced in the Senate this morning a bill to aid the building of a rolling-mill and nail factory in the City of Washington. It enacts that four hundred feet square of reservation—seventeen feet on the west side of Virginia avenue and the east side of the Washington canal—be donated or loaned for the term of thirty years to THOMAS MCKEARNEY, as a site for a rolling-mill and nail factory, and manufacturing and rolling iron in all its various branches, and for no other purpose whatever—said improvements to be commenced in one year and completed in three years. Referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

CUBA AND THE SPIKE-ISLANDS.

The statement that orders have been issued to send iron-clads to the coast of Cuba is without foundation. The action of the Navy Department, with reference to our naval forces in that quarter, has been to order several vessels in the Pacific and in the Mediterranean, which are under orders to proceed home, to return by way of Cuba, and to augment our squadron there so to iron-clads. No orders have been given except to institute an investigation into their condition, with a view to learning how soon they could be put into commission, if needed. Admiral POWRAY will see to it that the commercial interests of this country are well protected in that quarter.

Dispatches to the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Thursday, March 18.

RECONSTRUCTION MATTERS.

This morning the Committee on Reconstruction considered Georgia matters without any result. It is understood that the Committee is equally divided regarding Mississippi, the point of difference being whether the President of the United States or the reassembled Convention shall appoint the Provisional Governor. The Committee have agreed to report the Senate bill extending the time for the removal of ineligible civil officers in Virginia, with an amendment extending its provisions to Mississippi and Texas.

The Missouri case, involving the test oath, will be argued before the Supreme Court on Wednesday by Senator DRAKE, in behalf of Missouri, and MONTGOMERY BLAIR and Ex-Attorney-General EVARTS in behalf of F. P. BLAIR, Jr.

AFFAIRS AT THE TREASURY.

HENRY C. HILES has been assigned for duty in the Treasury Department as Chief of the Appointment Division. Mr. HILES has long been one of the principal clerks of that office.

The rush of office-seekers on Secretary BOUTWELL is greater to-day than at any previous time during the present Administration.

GEORGE S. MCCARTEE has been appointed by the Secretary of the Treasury Chief of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, and GERMAN RUDD, a clerk in the First Auditor's office, Superintendent of the Treasury Building. WILLIAM RICHARDSON, of Boston, has, it is said, accepted the appointment of Assistant Secretary of the Treasury.

THE TEXAS CONSTITUTION.

Hon. A. J. HAMILTON, Judge JAMES H. BELL and GEORGE W. PASCHAL, C. C. COLDWELL, and Colonel J. L. HAYNES and twenty other gentlemen from Texas, twelve of them delegates in the recent Reconstructional Convention, have addressed a memorial to Congress setting forth the issues between the Republican Party and the anti-division men, and praying the people may be allowed to vote on the Constitution recently framed by the Convention, which, the memorialists say, will be adopted by an overwhelming majority.

THE NATIONAL CURRENCY ACT.

The bill introduced by Representative COFFAX, of Indiana, last Monday, to amend the National Currency act, and referred to the Committee on Banking and Currency, is as follows:

Be it enacted, &c., That to secure a better distribution of the National Bank currency there may be issued circulation notes to banking associations organized or to be organized in the States and Territories, upon a ratio of one million of dollars for every million, as hereafter set forth, and the circulation herein authorized shall, under the direction of the Secretary of the Treasury, at any time be requested in this purpose, be withdrawn from banks organized in States and the District of Columbia having a circulation of more than one hundred thousand dollars, and issued to banks with a circulation exceeding one hundred thousand dollars and not exceeding two hundred thousand dollars; of such circulation, withdrawn from banks therein having a circulation of seven hundred thousand dollars and less and more than two hundred thousand dollars, and issued to banks in the district of Columbia, and those from banks therein having a circulation of two hundred thousand and less than one hundred thousand dollars, and issued to banks in the district of Columbia, and those from banks therein having a circulation of two hundred thousand dollars and upwards

QUARANTINE MATTERS.

The "Jungle Fever"—The "Foster" Ship Never, &c.

The ship Bosworth arrived at Quarantine on Wednesday, (as noticed in the TIMES of yesterday,) from Samarang, Java, which port she left on the 26th of November last. On the way hither it was discovered that the "jungle fever"—a typhus-malarious febrile disease peculiar to Java—had broken out among her crew, in consequence of which she put into Table Bay, after having lost six of her crew, and having sick the second mate and five more of the crew. The sick were left at Table Bay, and a new crew was there shipped for the voyage to New-York. When the Bosworth arrived here on Wednesday, however, she had no sickness on board, and brought with her a clean bill of health from Table Bay. From the fact that the vessel had been sixty-six days, since Jan. 10, without the reappearance of the fever, and that no one disease "wherever on board, it was not necessary to place her in quarantine; and after a thorough inspection she was allowed to pass up to the City. The fever with which a portion of the crew was affected is not considered to be really contagious; and the fact that the new crew, shipped at Table Bay, for sixty-six days, experienced no ill effects from the sickness heretofore prevalent on the vessel, is warrant enough for allowing her to pass the quarantine. Had there been any sign of danger, the public may rest assured that neither the Health Officer, or his assistant, Dr. ENID, would have allowed her to pass.

Resolutions affecting the Quarantine have been lately introduced into the Assembly. On the 16th the Health Officer was requested to inform the House why he ordered the transfer of certain passengers by the James River, Jr., to Ward's Island. The inquiry showed ignorance of the existing law, for by section 8, chapter 613, of the laws of 1865, it is provided that:

"The Commissioners of Emigration shall, by the order and direction of the Health Officer, receive and take charge of all passengers arriving at the port of New-York who shall have been exposed to the infection or contagion of small-pox or ship fever, to be kept elsewhere than on Staten Island."

In the case of the Foster it was found that, owing to the prevalence of ship fever, all the passengers had been "exposed" to the infection. Accordingly, the Health Officer directed that the sick, those who had had ship fever, or who complained of symptoms of fever, should be sent to Ward's Island. Among them were children and others, who, though it may be were not actually sick of ship fever, were complaining, and all of whom had been "exposed" to the infection. What else had the Health Officer to do? The other alternative left him was to permit them to go up to New-York. Had their symptoms thereafter been developed into genuine cases of fever, and had he run the risk of thus spreading the disease in the City, the people and the Press would have held him blameable. Taking precautionary measures, therefore, he ordered the sick and complaining (and these only) to Ward's Island, where every necessary care and attention could be, and are now, bestowed upon them. Instead of being asked to show the reason why he sent them thither, he should be complimented for his precautionary measures. The Health Officer has been for years urging, and does now urge, on the Legislature the necessity of providing a place for the detention of such persons as may be exposed to the contagion of disease during ocean voyages. A portion of Coney Island, within a mile and a half from the mainland, and still further from any private residence, was suggested for that purpose, but it met with decided and though misinformed opposition from the people of Brooklyn. When we reflect, however, that among all the vessels which have brought cholera to this port, not a single cabin passenger has taken the disease, although the barrier between them and the steerage passengers was the simple bulkhead of a ship, it is hardly fair to allow the action of the Health Officer to tell against him in such cases as that of the Foster, when his only care has been to guard against possible infection by febrile and other diseases among the City. The necessity of providing places where the sick can be separated from the well among the poor emigrants—where the latter can be provided with all necessary facilities for their comfort and cleanliness—where they can enjoy the fresh air, and feel that they are no longer breathing the poisoned atmosphere that may be fatal to their friends and companions—must be apparent.

THE DETECTIVE POLICE.

The Commissioners Refuse to Accept the Resignation of Captain Young—Charges to be Made Against Him.

Below are given the official documents relating to the resignation of JOHN S. YOUNG, Captain of the Detective Police, the circumstances leading to which event have been fully reported in the TIMES. The letter of Captain YOUNG to the Commissioners is as follows:

OFFICE OF THE SUPERINTENDENT OF METROPOLITAN FIRE POLICE, NEW-YORK, March 15, 1869.

To the Honorable Commissioners of Metropolitan Police:

GENTLEMEN: The spirit and letter of a recent order from your honorable body, is so unusual and unprecedented as to convince me that the relations and confidence which should exist between the Board and the Captain of the Detective Force of this Department, and to remember has always so far been friendly and generous) must be in the future impaired, and therefore, with great respect, I beg to be retired as Captain of Detective force to enable me to consider my withdrawal from the force by hereby resigning as a member thereof. Respectfully yours,

JOHN S. YOUNG,
Captain of Detective Police.

This letter was handed to Mr. HAWLEY, Chief Clerk of the Police Board, on Wednesday, but as there was no meeting on that day the matter was not considered until yesterday morning. Commissioners BOSWORTH, MASTERS, and BERRIAN being present at the meeting yesterday, Judge BOSWORTH offered the following resolutions which were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, This Board, by a resolution adopted on the 9th day of March, 1869, required Captain JOHN S. YOUNG, of the Metropolitan Police, to report without unnecessary delay, the date from which he received for Police services, either as a reward or otherwise, other than his salary since the 1st of January, 1869, the amount of each sum so received and the date of the receipt of the same; and, whereas, the Board has manifested to the Board the fact of the receipt of all the said moneys so received by him, and if he has not, then that he specify the particular amounts of those so received, the particular date when he put them communicated by him to this Board, and that he immediately pay to this Board all the moneys so received by him, and not so reported to this Board, and that the gathering him to retain, to be disposed of by the Board as law and justice may require, and also that he report the date of each one in respect to which nothing has been paid to him for Police purposes during the period covered by that resolution, including the names of each person, party or corporation, who has paid to him money as aforesaid, and the sum so paid by every such person, party or corporation; and

Whereas, The said JOHN S. YOUNG has wholly failed and omitted to make the report required by the said resolution, and instead thereof has sent to this Board the resignation, dated March 15, 1869, and received by the Board this day; now, therefore, it is

Resolved, That this Board does not accept the said resignation, and will not permit the said JOHN S. YOUNG to retire, as he has attempted to do, without to furnish the information and perform the duties which the said resolution and the debate in such case made and provided require him to furnish and perform.

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk is hereby required to prefer charges against said JOHN S. YOUNG, for neglect of duty and disobedience of orders, in not making a report in obedience to said resolution, and for having received since Jan. 1, 1869, money for police services, without giving notice to the Board of the receipt thereof.

In accordance with the order embodied in the last resolution, Mr. HAWLEY will prepare the charges and specifications against Captain YOUNG, and has progressed so far in his task that the trial has been set down for Monday next, but exactly how the trial can take place in the absence of the accused is not known, and there is a rumor in Police circles that Captain YOUNG will not appear to be tried.

The Detective force is, by order of the Police Board, under the direct supervision of Superintendent KENNEDY, pending the trial of Captain YOUNG. The Board has not taken any steps in the selection of a successor, and it is not probable that any Captain will be appointed to fill the vacancy, but that the Detective Squad of seventeen men will be placed in charge of a Sergeant, or in that of the Superintendent or Inspectors.

Coroners' Cases, Casualties and Sudden Deaths.

WALTER B. BUCKLEY, on the 9th inst., took a train of the Erie Railway, at Hankins for the City, and when near Turner's the train then going at the rate of forty miles an hour, met a Western-bound freight train, laden with railroad iron. One of the bars of iron, having become displaced, entered the passenger car where Mr. BUCKLEY sat, and, striking him on the leg just above the ankle, he received an injury of which he died on the 12th inst., at the Irving House in this City. Coroner FLYNN began an inquest in the case, which has been adjourned to secure the presence of Mr. RIDDLE, Superintendent of the Erie Railway, who was on the train when the accident occurred.

The body of a small male infant was found at an early hour yesterday morning, in the stone-yard No. 160 East Twenty-third-street, and was taken to the Office of Coroner RIEDY of the Eighteenth Precinct, in the Morgue. Coroner FLYNN held an inquest in the case, but nothing was learned as to the parentage of the child.

CHARLES GARSON, 9 years of age, on Wednesday morning, fell into a boiler of scalding water at the residence of his parents, No. 170 Broome-street, and was so badly scalded that he died at an early hour yesterday morning. Coroner HOLZWINE held an inquest in the case, and a verdict of accidental death was rendered.

DANIEL H. TAYLOR, a lawyer, died suddenly yesterday at No. 407 Third-avenue. The circumstances of death not being satisfactory to the Board of Health, the case was referred to Coroner FLYNN, who held an inquest. Death was caused by the heart ceasing from an accidental fall some time ago.

MICHAEL MULLANEY, a native of Ireland, forty-six years of age, yesterday morning was found dead on the floor of his shanty in Forty-third-street, near First-avenue. Coroner FLYNN held an inquest and found that death had resulted from a stroke of apoplexy.

In the case of JOHN NIEDERGRAHE, who was killed by being run over by a dummy engine of the Second-avenue Railroad, as fully reported yesterday, the inquest was adjourned by Coroner FLYNN until Monday. The inquest was also adjourned the case of the man killed by a Fourth-avenue car at the foot of Thirty-fourth-street, until Saturday. This case was fully reported yesterday. The deceased has been identified as one EDWARD CONNORS, who resided in Twenty-third-street, near First-avenue.

Coroner KENNAN held an inquest yesterday on the case of LEWIN ELSENBARG, aged six years, the particulars of which have been fully reported. The jury rendered the following verdict: "That the deceased came to his death by injuries accidentally received from Car No. 24 of the Second-avenue Railroad Company, running over him on the 12th day of March, 1869, in First-avenue, near Third-street. They recommend car drivers to proceed slowly and with great caution through the crowded parts of the City."

Yesterday afternoon, about 3 o'clock, DANIEL COREEN, an employe of ROTHSCHILD & CO., No. 6 Leonard-street, in attempting to get to the roof at the hatchway on the fifth floor, accidentally fell through to the ground floor. He was picked up terribly mangled about the head, but was still breathing, and was carried to the New-York Hospital, where he died in a few minutes. The deceased was a German by birth, 40 years of age, and resided at No. 217 Seventh-street. Coroner FLYNN was notified, and will hold an inquest this morning.

THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Proposed Modification of the Public School System of New-York—Copy of the Bill Pending in the State Legislature.

The following is a copy of a bill introduced into the State Legislature, at Albany, on Saturday last, to which reference has already been made in the TIMES:

An Act Relative to the Common Schools of the City of New-York.

The people of the State of New-York, represented in the Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

SECTION 1. The terms of office of the present Commissioners of Common Schools of the City of New-York shall terminate at the expiration of ten days from the passage of this act. At the next general election, held in the City of New-York, twelve Commissioners of Common Schools of the City of New-York shall be voted for, upon a separate general ticket; but only seven names shall be upon any one ticket, and any ticket having thereon more than seven names for Commissioners of Common Schools shall not be counted. The seven persons having the highest number of votes shall be declared elected by the Board of Canvassers, who shall canvass the votes; and all the provisions of law relating to the election of county officers in said county are hereby applied to the election of said Commissioners.

On or before the fourth Wednesday of December in each and every year, the Mayor of said City shall appoint as Commissioners of Common Schools, as aforesaid, the five persons who received the highest number of votes for Commissioners of Common Schools next to the votes received by such Commissioners retiring by reason of the report of County Canvassers as herein before directed at such election.

The Commissioners elected and appointed pursuant to this section shall enter upon their duties on the 1st day of January next; they shall hold their offices for the term of three years, and shall possess all the powers and perform all the duties of Commissioners of Common Schools of the City of New-York. At the general election next ensuing after the expiration of the term of office of the Commissioners of Common Schools of said City, shall in like manner be elected and appointed, with the like term of office, powers and duties as above provided.

SEC. 2. It shall be the duty of the Mayor of the City of New-York, within five days from and after the passage of this act, to appoint twelve Commissioners of Common Schools, representing the principle of representation to the minority, provided for in the preceding section, so he shall divide who shall serve the term of three years, and who shall serve for two years, from the passage of this act, and who shall possess all the powers and perform all the duties of Commissioners of Common Schools of the City of New-York, in place of the Commissioners of Common Schools of said City, and who shall hold their offices until the 31st of December next.

SEC. 3. All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed.

SEC. 4. This act shall take effect immediately.

Manufacturing Ice.

The Lowe Refrigerated Steamship Company's ship Wm. Tober was visited yesterday by some fifty gentlemen who had been invited to witness Professor T. S. C. LOWE's process of manufacturing ice, and the practical application of it to the refrigerating of meats, fruits and other equally perishable articles used for food. The ship lies at the foot of East Ninetieth-street, and is to sail for Texas next week for the purpose of bringing hence to this port a cargo of beef. This process, it is claimed, provides a sure means by which the meat of the animal, reserved for use, and fine fruit may be transported in their perfection, from the lowest southern to the highest northern latitudes, or across the ocean to Europe or Asia. The process consists in imprisoning carbonic acid gas of the lightest heat, while it is being compressed, under pressure, permitting it to re-vaporize through tubes, exposing those through which currents of air are forced into the refrigerating apartments. As the gas has parted with its heat to the freezing water, while it was being condensed to liquid, it will absorb at equal heat from the air passing through the interior tubes as it again expands into gas. This quality of heat absorption is so powerful and rapid that the air entering the refrigerating apartments is deprived of all heat, and may, if required, be carried to 100° below zero, and any degree of dry pure cold may be sustained in any apartment of any size, by alternating the process of condensing the gas into liquid, and revaporizing the same through the gas. Although liquid and gas are confined in the condenser and tubes, they are cooled and reused, rendering the process of trifling expense when compared with its great results.

The hold of the Wm. Tober is divided into compartments, the temperature of which is kept at a little freezing point, and may be decreased at will to the point above mentioned. With a steam engine of thirty-horse power the entire vessel will be kept refrigerated constantly. A sufficient supply of carbonic acid gas is obtained at very slight cost, and this is used over and over again without losing its quality to lower the temperature of the water, which it surrounds for the purpose of converting it into ice.

Professor LOWE yesterday performed some very interesting experiments after entertaining his guests sumptuously at a table in the saloon of the vessel. Having procured a large quantity of solidified carbonic gas, whose temperature, as nearly as could be ascertained, was 150° below zero, he quickly froze quicksilver, and also water, in the open air. It is claimed that by Professor LOWE's process ice can be manufactured in any climate, and in any quantity, at a cost of $6 per ton.

Fruit Growers' Club.

This Society convened yesterday, the 18th, at the usual place, with Dr. R. T. HALLOCK in the chair. A gentleman sent a potato from Ohio to be identified, which was pronounced to be the Early Goodrich. Mr. A. S. FULLER then read a short paper on pruning trees and vines, after which he showed what he considers the best system of pruning, by clipping the roots and cutting off the stems of some grapevines and currant bushes which had been brought to the meeting for that purpose. Numerous questions touching the subject of planting trees and vines were asked and answered. Currants, it was stated, cannot be raised satisfactorily when the bushes are trained to a single stem, on account of the borer, which will soon destroy them. Trees on bushes of any kind were said to be more likely to live and grow luxuriantly if the tops are cut off, so that only a stub is left, than if the entire branches are suffered to grow.

It was announced that on next Thursday the Club will convene in the new and commodious hall No. 97 Park-place, when W. S. CARPENTER will read a paper on "The Apple."

The Newsboys' Lodging House.

Mr. O'CONNOR, Superintendent of the Newsboys' Lodging House, No. 69 Park-place, is constantly in receipt of letters asking for boys and girls to be sent out West. The following was received a day or two ago:

FRAIRIEVILLE, Mo., March 8, 1869.

To the Superintendent of the News Boys' Lodging House, No. 69 Park-place, New-York:

DEAR SIR—I write to know if you can send me four good boys, from 12 to 14. I will board and clothe them. I will give them a good common education, and make them the farmers of them, and at the age of 21 I will provide them my forty acres of good land, and the farm for nothing.

I would like to take a girl from 12 to 16, give her the same advantages, and the same quantity of land when of age. Respectfully yours,

COLONEL CHARLES L. DAVIS.

A company of boys will leave this institution for the West on the 31st.

Accident to the Harlem Steamboat.

The steamboat Nelly White, which has recently been running to Harlem and Astoria in place of the Sylvan Grove, yesterday morning came in collision with the dock at Astoria with sufficient force to carry away the forward guards and break in the lower cabin forward of and nearly to the paddle-wheel. Two or three persons were struck by flying splinters, but no one was seriously injured. Much sentiment was excited directly the news got out until the extent of the damage was fully ascertained. The blame and the sympathy in favor of the Sylvan Grove and the slander against the other boat was so strong that it was thought necessary to prevent the collision. The passengers concerned the wife of Mr. Thos. T. Tucker, who commanded the Sylvan Grove at the time of the collision with the Providence last Summer.

The Alleged Carelessness of Post Office Employes.

POST OFFICE, NEW-YORK, Thursday, March 18, 1869.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

In answer to your comments in your paper of this day on the carelessness of the subordinates of Postmaster KELLY, I beg leave to give you the facts of the case. All mails, after leaving and before arriving at the New-York Post Office, are in charge of the contractor for the service and the mail agents appointed by the Department at Washington. They are, not subordinates of Postmaster KELLY or employes of his office, and are responsible to the Department for their actions. In the case alluded to the Postmaster applied all the power he had in his power, that is, to request the contractor to discharge the two mail drivers, and recommended to the Department the removal of the agent.

Yours, respectfully,
S. H. KNAPP,
Supt. of Mails, New-York Post Office.

St. David's Benevolent Society.

At the annual meeting of the above Society, the following gentlemen were elected officers for the ensuing year: President, Colonel J. H. PULESTON; Vice-Presidents, John Phillips and John T. Davies; Recording Secretary, D. H. Morgan; Corresponding Secretary, William R. Jones, No. 234 Broadway; Treasurer, Wm. Lewis; Stewards, Geo. Morgan, Evan Davies, J. E. Roberts, John L. Davies and T. R. Jones; Committee—Literature, E. Richards, H. J. Hughes and J. C. Roberts; Finance, Wm. Miles, H. H. Morgan and Owen Jones; Benevolence, Jas. Jones, F. H. Williams, Stephen Davies, Wm. A. Reed and Owen Roberts; Chaplain, Rev. Evan Griffith; Counsel, J. B. Cromwell.

The finances of the Society have been largely augmented under the Presidency of Mr. PULESTON, who, with nearly all the retiring officers, was unanimously reelected.

The dinner in honor of the memory of the Welsh saint, Dewi Sant, which was given at the Hoffman House, was a sumptuous and most successful affair. The speaking was of a high order, and, as a matter of course, very patriotic.

Whitfield, Spurgeon and Beecher.

Last evening Rev. J. HYATT SMITH lectured before a large audience, in the Broome-street Presbyterian Church, upon those most celebrated preachers of modern times, WHITFIELD, SPURGEON and HENRY WARD BEECHER. He gave brief biographical details in the lives of each, and instituted comparisons between them. He described a visit to SPURGEON'S Tabernacle, the mode of conducting worship there, and the great hyper-Calvinistic manner in the pulpit. Coming home to our own locality, he gave interesting anecdotes of Rev. Dr. LYMAN BEECHER and Henry Ward Beecher's mother, that "God created saints, sinners and the BEECHER family." He said that HENRY WARD BEECHER'S power was to-day greater than that of any pulpit or platform orator in the country.

UNITED STATES COURT—BROOKLYN.

Before Judge Benedict.

In the case of the sinking of the ship Kate Dyer and the steamship Scotland, in which an action was brought against the National Steam Navigation Company for the recovery of damages amounting to $200,000, the Court yesterday decided that the evidence made it apparent that the attention of the officer in charge of the movements of the steamer was not fastened on the ship at the time of the collision, and entered that a decree be entered in favor of the libelants, with an order of reference to ascertain the amount of damages.

In the two cases, Colon Carpenter vs. Henry Cox, Henry Cox vs. The sloop Elmira Shepard, which were tried before the Court, a decision was rendered in the first that the vessel must be held liable for the damage, and in the second in favor of the libelants, with an order of reference to ascertain and report the amount of damages.

UNITED STATES COMMISSIONERS' OFFICE.

Before Commissioner Osborn,

DEFRAUDING THE GOVERNMENT.

United States vs. Jacob Freud.—The District-Attorney brought forward the second charge against Mr. Freud yesterday, namely the charge that he had conspired with one Singer and one Knopf to defraud the Government by running a distillery at No. 1 Ridge-street, on a false bond and without paying taxes.

Patrick Scott testified that he had filed the bond and that the business was conducted in his name, though he was only an irresponsible workman at the factory; that the factory was worked for six weeks with thirty workmen; that they made a return as the Revenue Board of 30,000 cigars on one occasion; that the Government got no money from them at all.

Julius Knopf was called, but the defence objected that he was already in a similar case, and that the company with Freud, Singer was abroad, and the District-Attorney concluded not to press the charge, and the Commissioner therefore dismissed it.

The arguments on the first charge will be heard on Monday.

CHARGE OF BLACKMAILING.

United States vs. Farnham E. Tucker.—The defendant was charged with an attempt to blackmail Mr. Ray, the publisher.

Mr. Ray's brother was put on the stand, and testified to witnessing several payments of money by Ray to Tucker, confirming the statements of previous witnesses. The greater part of the time in this case was taken up by the most minute details concerning where Mr. Ray stood, where Mr. Tucker stood, what he said, what Ray said, what he said this, &c.

The case was then adjourned.

Before Commissioner Betts.

SUPREME COURT—SPECIAL TERM—MARCH 18.

Before Presiding Justice Clerke.

CONSTRUCTIVE REVOCATION OF A DEED—A FAMILY QUARREL.

Mary Ann Henry, Administratrix of Patrick Henry, deceased, vs. Caroline H. People.—The plaintiff in this case is the administratrix of Patrick Henry, who died at Newport in the fall of July, 1867. The plaintiff in his lifetime and the defendant is a married daughter. It appears from the fact that this appellant had a family quarrel of a most unusual and aggravated character, which resulted in his making an instrument purporting to be a deed of his property, when he died, was it revoked in this City. He left surviving his widow, who is the plaintiff, and also three children, his sons by a previous marriage, and a daughter by a first wife, who resided in this City. In his will he provided for a small legacy. In searching his papers the papers of Mr. Henry some time after his death appeared to have been sent from Newport to his daughter in this City, and in Peace Dale, Rhode Island, in Carolina, where Mr. Henry had resided. The deed was then delivered to the daughter by Mr. Henry's clerk, who was present at the time of the execution, in her complaint charges that the deed was revoked by the destruction of the deed, but when the deed appeared was passed it to be recorded, and after every effort that it was not destroyed, it was found, if in existence, it was not in the hands of Mr. Henry's clerk. The mother, as executrix of the estate

The week's business in Butter and Cheese, Messrs. STARR & FLOYD, in their special report for the WEEKLY TIMES, notice thus:

The total receipts of Butter for the week ending this day are 10,085 packages. The high rates of the market have kept the demand for Butter and every package from the dairy rooms of this State and Pennsylvania, but also the little good and the mass of inferior Canada stock that had been passed or rejected by the buyers, block for the English market. The stock of really good to fine Butter is quite limited, and for such a fair demand prevails for local and coastwise trade, while low grades of State and Canada stock are dull and heavy, with quotations nominally unchanged. The market closes quiet and subject to a prompt change, higher or lower, according to the quantities arriving during the next few days. We quote:

The total receipts of Cheese for the week ending this day are 1,210 boxes. Exporters relinquished the field some time since, and the great disparity between the English and our own markets, and a high freight, drove to a close and the period for the new crop approaches, they are less disposed to operate unless at very low rates. Our home trade continues to consume quantity the sole outlets for the balance of the crop are local and coastwise trade, which will diminish with the close of the season of Lent. Holders of Cheese are very pliable, and the market is nominal with a tendency to lower prices. We quote:

CHEESE.

A conference between France and Belgium is proposed for the purpose of arranging certain commercial questions of mutual interest, and also to make some modifications of the Belgian law which prevents the transfer of railroad interests to foreign companies.

CELESTINO OLEAGA, a member of the Spanish Cortes, and one of its Secretaries, was killed in a duel, at Madrid, on Wednesday.

A number of Irish noblemen and landowners have published a protest against the passage of Mr. GLADSTONE'S bill for the disestablishment of the Irish Church.

In the House of Commons last night the bill providing for the disestablishment of the Irish Church was taken up, and Mr. DISRAELI made a speech in opposition to it. Mr. GREGORY replied at considerable length. In the House of Peers the policy of releasing Fenian prisoners was condemned by Lord GREY and Lord CAIRNS.

The cotton spinners of Preston have struck in consequence of a proposed reduction of wages.

CUBA.

Captain-General DULCE has issued a proclamation reducing the taxation on plantations and country real estate fifty per cent., and imposing additional duties on sugar and molasses.

Our mail advices from Havana, received by the Columbia, are dated March 15. They include interesting details of the situation, as well as statements concerning the political prisoners who, it seems, are positively to be transported to Fernando Po, and general intelligence that will repay perusal.

CONGRESS.

In the Senate, yesterday, several bills of minor importance were reported from committees and passed, and several others were introduced and referred to committees. The bill supplemental to the act to provide a national currency secured by a pledge of United States bonds was debated until the expiration of the morning hour. The bill to repeal the Tenure-of-Office bill came up as unfinished business. Mr. MORTON concluded his argument in favor of the repeal. Mr. DAVIS spoke for two hours and a half to prove that the Tenure-of-Office bill was unconstitutional and void. Mr. BROWNLOW obtained the floor, but being too weak to read his remarks they were read by the Secretary. He was opposed to the repeal, but would favor a modification of the law. Mr. SCOTT obtained the floor but yielded to a motion to adjourn. Mr. TRUMBULL announced that he should press the bill to a vote to-day.

In the House, a number of documents relating to contested elections were referred to the Election Committee. One relating to the contest in Mr. COVODE'S (Pennsylvania) district provoked a lengthy debate, but was finally laid on the table. A Committee of Conference was appointed to settle the dispute in regard to the Joint Committee of Retrenchment. The House wants a Committee consisting of four Senators and seven Representatives, and the Senate wants three Senators and three Representatives. Mr. FARNSWORTH, from the Committee on Reconstruction, reported a substitute for the bill providing for the removal of civil officers in Virginia, Mississippi and Texas. The substitute extends the time thirty days in which commanding officers are allowed to remove such officers as cannot take the test oath. Mr. BUTLER opposed the measure, as did also Mr. PAINE, both members of the Reconstruction Committee. The bill was recommitted to the Reconstruction Committee, and the House adjourned.

GENERAL.

Some of the convicts in Sing Sing Prison made two desperate attempts to escape yesterday. At 4 o'clock in the morning, one of the keepers named FORREST took five of the convicts from their cells for the purpose of bringing in the breakfast for the other prisoners. While on the way to the kitchen the convicts seized FORREST and bound and gagged him, leaving him on the floor. They then went to the kitchen and served the guard in like manner, after which they escaped by means of the roof. It was afterward found that EDWARD CRAFT, the guard, who had been bound, had died of suffocation from being gagged. Two of the escaped convicts were soon after captured in a barn at Tarrytown. In the afternoon a number of convicts while at work overpowered their guard, and made a rush for a schooner which was lying at anchor. They drove every one away from it, but before they could get the schooner away from the dock a guard from the prison arrived and commenced firing upon them. Two or three were seriously injured and the remainder surrendered.

Yesterday morning a robber entered the sleeping apartment of Mr. CHRISTOPHER GREGG, at Hamilton, Canada, and took from under that gentleman's head a wallet containing $250. Mr. GREGG awaking the robber shot at him, the bullet taking effect in the right side of Mrs. GREGG. The robber then escaped. Mrs. GREGG is still alive, but lies in a very precarious condition.

The Delaware Senate yesterday rejected the Fifteenth Amendment by a strict party vote.

An explosion occurred in a powder-mill and torpedo factory near Titusville, Penn., yesterday, by which three workmen were killed and the proprietor, Col. DAVIDSON, so seriously injured that his recovery is doubtful.

General McKENZIE telegraphs to headquarters in Missouri discrediting the report of the capture of General CUSTER by Indians. He says the last heard from Custer he was on the point of leaving the Wichita Mountains to come north. An officer from Fort Craig, New-Mexico, heard nothing of the report till he struck the Smoky Hill Route.

Five Pawnee Indians recently went to Ellsworth, Kansas, when some rowdies called upon them to surrender. Two of them did so, but the three others attempted to escape, whereupon they were shot and scalped. Next day twenty Pawnees came into Ellsworth and threatened to burn the town unless the murderers of their friends were surrendered. They were frightened away by some troops who were hastened to the town. Seven Pawnees were killed about the same time by soldiers who had been sent in pursuit of them by General SHELDY.

At San Francisco, on Wednesday, while a salute was being fired on board the steamer Cherpepolis, on the occasion of the reception of the "Emmett Guard" military company, from Sacramento City, a keg of gunpowder was accidentally exploded, and some eighteen or twenty persons injured. The boat was considerably damaged.

Dr. MUDD, who was lately released from the Dry Tortugas, arrived in Baltimore yesterday on the steamship Liberty, from Key West.

The murder of three men at Island No. 10, in the Mississippi, is reported in a dispatch from Chicago. Three men, named DARNELL, went on board the steamer Belle of Memphis at Darnell's Landing, and asked the Captain to stop at Island No. 10, as some other persons wanted to get on board. As the steamer stopped at the Island three men named LAKE were in waiting, one of whom, accompanied by a lady, stepped on board the boat. He was immediately shot down by the DARNELLS and killed. They then ran to the guards of the boat and shot the two other LAKES who were on shore. The DARNELLS then went ashore, and as they did so, asked the Captain to take good care of the lady who was left on the boat. No cause for these murders is assigned.

In the Superior Court, at Hartford, on Wednesday, JAMES WILSON, alias Dave Kentley, the notorious burglar, was sentenced to five years in the State Prison for burglary at Hartford, and seven years for burglary in Plainville. He is already serving four years' time, dating from December, making sixteen years in all. He has heretofore escaped from Michigan, Ohio and New-Jersey prisons, where his time is yet to be served. In getting away from Michigan he frost both feet, and had them amputated near the instep.

Two sleeping cars on the Pan Handle route were thrown from the track on Tuesday and a number of persons injured, one so seriously that he was left at Steubenville, near which place the accident occurred. A broken rail was the occasion of the accident.

It is said that Judge WILLIAM A. RICHARDSON, of Cambridge, has telegraphed to Washington his acceptance of the office of the Assistant Secretaryship of the Treasury, and that he will be appointed by the President.

Assistant Surgeon WILLIAM A. BRADLEY, Brevet Major U. S. A., died suddenly, at Point San Jose, Cal., Feb. 26, from apoplexy. The deceased was a native of Washington, D. C., and received his appointment as an officer in the regular army on the 2d of October, 1861. He served with credit during the war, and was brevetted a Major for meritorious services, to date from March 13, 1865.

The United States Marshal at Atlanta, Ga., mysteriously disappeared a few days since. It is rumored that he had in his possession upwards of $50,000 belonging to private individuals.

A Chicago paper prints a statement to the effect that a half-witted boy has confessed to having murdered Hon. MURRAY MCCONNELL, of Indiana. The boy says he had a dispute with Mr. MCCONNELL about $11, and becoming enraged struck him on the head with a hammer. The boy is left-handed, and it is asserted that the blows which proved fatal must have been struck by a left-handed person. Mr. ROBINSON, who is under arrest charged with the murder, maintains a calm and confident demeanor, and feels assured that he will be able to establish his innocence.

Señor MORALES LEMUS has arrived here, fully empowered by President CESPEDES as Minister from the Provisional Government of Cuba. He goes to Washington to seek recognition of the Revolutionary Government.

Rev. J. HYATT SMITH lectured yesterday evening, at the Broome-street Presbyterian Church, on WHITFIELD, STURGEON and BEECHER, describing them in a humorous, striking manner, and indicating the points of resemblance and the contrasts between them.

The Police Commissioners have directed their Chief Clerk to prefer charges against Detective JOHN S. YOUNG, for neglect of duty and disobedience of orders, and for having received since Jan. 1, 1869, money for police services without giving notice to the Board of the receipt thereof.

A new wing of the Long Island College Hospital was opened last evening.

Cotton was quiet and heavy yesterday. Flour and Pork were in good demand and firmer. Grain and Lard were less sought after at easier prices. Groceries dull. Freights very tame.

Army Reduction and Consolidation.

The prompt action of the War Department upon that clause in the Army Appropriation bill providing for a reduction and consolidation of the infantry from forty-five regiments to twenty-five, is the best possible commentary upon the famous army debate of the last Congress. In that debate, General BUTLER, who led the forces that opposed the moderate scheme of General GARFIELD, and advised, in its place, wholesale slaughter of officers and men, remarked that "it had been said over and over again that the General of the Army desired no reduction, and the putting the matter in his hands with that fact before the House would show that the House did not desire any reduction."

This was the doctrine from which the World could not withhold its "admiration," but both the World and its protégé have sung very low on the subject since the consolidation has been effected. "With the Republican Party in power," said that journal, "we expect nothing valuable in army retrenchment." And having got something valuable, it bears its disappointment with grim silence.

The measure which actually passed was General GARFIELD'S plan, modified slightly by the Blaine amendment, and further slightly modified by the action of the Senate. It left with the War Department the charge of consolidating all the infantry regiments to twenty-five, "as rapidly as the requirements of the public service will permit." The consolidations were all made within a week after the passage of the Congressional measure, the necessary movements and assignments were ordered five days later, and instructions were issued to have them effected "without unnecessary delay."

The scheme of the reduction is very simple. The regiments are consolidated company by company, so that each company may have present for duty three commissioned and fourteen non-commissioned officers, and 105 enlisted men. All enlisted men unfit for active service are to be discharged, and no new enlistments made until the total is reduced to the maximum force authorized for 25 regiments. The 45 regiments are then reduced to 25. The supernumerary non-commissioned officers are to be discharged, unless they elect to remain in service on a lower grade, and the supernumerary commissioned officers will await orders at their homes. When vacancies occur they will be filled by assignment of senior officers of the same grade from among those awaiting orders.

Thus, quietly, economically, and without injustice, the important change will be effected, and the natural casualties of service—by deaths, resignations and dismissals—will soon have brought all the remaining supernumerary officers into service. In the transfer of regiments, also, for consolidation, care is taken, as far as possible, to avoid expenses of transportation by uniting those contiguous, or already present for duty in the new station assigned to the regiment.

The Fifteenth Amendment—Georgia and its Status.

The Fifteenth Amendment has fared badly in Georgia, from friends as well as enemies. Governor BULLOCK blundered in transmitting it to the Legislature. He made it the pretext for an argument upon the eligibility of colored citizens to office, and insisted that the amendment awaiting ratification places the right beyond dispute. Here was the beginning of a needless controversy, the bearing of which is apparent from the fact that the ratifying resolution as originally passed by the lower branch of the Legislature was qualified by a repudiation of "the construction placed upon said amendment by the Governor." This qualifying clause it was which led to the reconsideration of the resolution on the following day, and to manœuvres and counter-manœuvres on the part of violent Democrats and extreme Republicans, the precise object of which it is not easy to understand. This, however, is apparent: The quarrel in its more ugly aspect has grown out of the attempt of the Governor to fasten upon the amendment a construction which Congress left in doubt, aggravated as that attempt was by the equally gratuitous effort at self-vindication of those by whom the colored members were expelled.

Subsequently the Georgia House ratified the amendment anew, though in what terms and upon what conditions, if any, the telegraph has failed to report. But the Senate, by the casting vote of its President, on Wednesday resolved to postpone the subject indefinitely. For the time, therefore, Georgia virtually rejects the amendment, and by this action jeopardizes its immediate success.

The risk may be but temporary. For it is more than probable that Congress will exact the ratification of the amendment as one of the conditions of restoring Virginia, Mississippi and Texas to the Union. The right to enforce such a requirement is as valid as that which dictated the other features of Reconstruction, and its exercise in these cases will be neither inexpedient nor unjust. The amendment is a logical supplement of reconstruction, and it is proper that States awaiting readmission shall be required, if necessary, to contribute to its adoption. Far better will be this method of effecting the desired object than that devised by Senator MORTON to overcome difficulties occasioned by the withdrawal of members from a Legislature, as in Indiana. The authority to override rules framed by States for the government of their own legislators is doubtful, to say the least, and its exercise, be the authority what it may, would be unseemly and impolitic. But so far as the unreconstructed States are concerned, no delicacy of the kind exists. The requirements already provided for cover in a different form much more than is comprised in the pending amendment. They establish universal suffrage as the starting point, while impartial enfranchisement is all at which the amendment aims.

Keeping this distinction in view, it must be admitted that the attitude assumed by the majority of the Georgia Democrats shows the importance of settling finally the suffrage question by a provision of the fundamental law. Until this be effected there will be no peace on the suffrage question. Mr. PENDLETON—whom the World last Autumn nominated for the party leadership in 1872—has recently foreshadowed the ground to be occupied in regard to the votes of colored people. He has urged that nothing be done implying concession or recognition; insisting that the Democracy must remain the "white man's party," and as such must everywhere make war upon negro suffrage. The address of the Indiana seceders proves that they occupy the same position.

Nor is it doubtful that the opposition to the amendment in Georgia proceeds in part from a disposition to keep the question open. Having professed to submit to terms involving universal suffrage, there can be no hostility to the engrafting of impartial suffrage upon the Federal Constitution except on the hypothesis that a final settlement is objectionable. In this fact lies the justification of the amendment and the evidence of its great importance. It is the only means by which an irritating contest may be satisfactorily ended; the only method by which the renewed agitation promised by Mr. PENDLETON, and anticipated by the Democrats, alike of Georgia and Indiana, may be prevented.

That the Georgia legislature, by its rejection of the amendment, strengthens the influences which threaten the standing of the State, is a consideration which ordinary prudence would not have underrated. The status of the State is assailed. Its Senators are excluded from the Chamber at Washington avowedly on the ground that the rights of the State are in dispute. The Judiciary Committee is divided in opinion—one half holding that the State is in the Union, and entitled to all its privileges, the other denying the validity of acts essential to its reconstruction. A measure is before the Senate canceling whatever recognition may have been extended to it, and throwing back the local government to the provisional point from which it has been supposed to have escaped. In these circumstances common sense would seem to have suggested compliance with the proposition for further amending the National Constitution as a mode of averting antagonism in Congress and reestablishing harmony between local and federal authority. These reasonable expectations have come to naught. The impulsive spirit and foolish pride which in the first instance disdained the Fourteenth Amendment as a basis of restoration, now reappear to reject the Fifteenth. The penalty of the former error is forgotten or disregarded. And under the pretence of upholding the dignity of the State, the Democrats have done what they could to provoke quarrels that may lead to its bitter humiliation.

Let us hope that Congress will not be led by momentary resentment to adopt retaliatory measures. The wrong-doing of the Legislature in expelling colored members, the obstinacy with which it has refused to retrace an inexcusable step, the manner of its rejection of the pending amendment,—are, perhaps, circumstances not readily tolerated. But they call for firm yet prudent treatment—not for harsh reprisals, or a policy of questionable constitutionality. The case is not clear enough to warrant sweeping measures. The difference of opinion in the Judiciary Committee is proof that any attempt to thrust back the State to the rudimentary stage of reconstruction would be revolting to an influential portion of the Republican Party. The period is past when scruples touching the constitutionality of a course proposed subsided before the stern law of necessity. Even to right the wronged and to secure the ratification of the Fifteenth Amendment, it is not desirable to sanction the plan at present before the Senate.

Under the new administration, time will accomplish much. The Republicans of Georgia, black and white, all have votes. The trouble hitherto has been that, with Mr. JOHNSON leagued with the Democracy, fraud and violence have neutralized votes and placed the colored people at the mercy of their enemies. President GRANT may be relied upon to secure for every man in the State freedom of speech and the unchecked exercise of the franchise; and with these advantages all the legitimate objects of the Congressional policy may be attained.

Emigrant Sailing Ships.

We recently expressed our fervent hope that good might come out of evil in the case of the horror-ship James Foster, and that the sacrifice of human life among the passengers and crew, and the fearful sufferings of the survivors, due to the rapacity of the owners and the inhuman cruelty of those employed by them, would not, after all, be without their influence for the welfare of future emigrants. And we are more disposed than ever to hope and believe that they will not be. The more widely that the details of the case are read and understood, the more general, we feel assured, will become the conviction that for the future no emigrants seeking our shores should be exposed to the possible risk of such sufferings and such treatment. It so happens that in the present case an unusually protracted voyage, exceptionally rough weather, and three or four peculiarly brutal officers combined to aggravate the normal discomforts and dangers of the voyage, and to bring about the state of things brought to light in the investigation before the Commissioners of Emigration. Owing to the continual storms through which the vessel passed, the passengers were confined down below for a considerable portion of the time, and the rough weather also operated unfavorably in increasing the difficulties under which they labored in getting their scanty supply of food cooked. Ship fever and diarrhœa soon made their appearance, and found the passengers with their health undermined by confinement and the insufficient supply of bad food, and their spirits broken down by suffering and cruelty, in no condition to resist their ravages. On arrival at this port, the vessel was visited in Quarantine, and owing to the deaths and the presence of infectious disease, she was detained and the case subjected to the investigation it is now undergoing.

There is no doubt, we admit, that the case of the James Foster is an exceptionally bad one. But we should like very much to know how far it differs in reality from that of the great majority of sailing vessels that arrive at this and other American ports with emigrants from England, Ireland, Germany or Sweden. If it had not been for the fever and the consequent detention in Quarantine, we should probably have heard nothing at all of the incidents and conditions of the voyage. We fear that few of these ships arrive without those on board who could tell a tale of privation and ill-treatment varying in the main but little from that extracted from the passengers on the James Foster. As a rule, passengers of that class are too glad to reach their destination to dwell upon the sufferings of the voyage, and are easily frightened or cajoled into silence, even if they know how to set about making public a record of their grievances.

We repeat once more our firm conviction that the interests of humanity demand that a stop shall be put to the conveyance of emigrant passengers in sailing vessels from Europe to America. There is no reason why it should be permitted to continue, and many why it should be suppressed. In the first place, if the steamship lines, notwithstanding all the existing competition, cannot afford to supply emigrants with sufficient of the plainest food for fourteen days for less than five pounds, it seems clear that the owners of sailing vessels cannot provide them with food fit for their proper sustenance for fifty or sixty days for little more than half, or at least two-thirds of that sum. On the steamers, too, their greater size and superior accommodations give far greater facilities for insuring the cleanliness and ventilation absolutely necessary to health. The regulation which established lines have to keep up, too, and the presence on board of cabin passengers, are guarantees against ill-treatment which do not exist on sailing vessels. The case, too, is one as to which there can be little or no prospect of amelioration. Now that the steamers have reduced their steerage fare to its present figure, the only possible way in which profit can be made out of the conveyance of emigrants in sailing ships is by not only keeping them on the verge of starvation, but by engaging landsmen as sailors, and inducing emigrants to work part of their passage out, instead of employing experienced hands. On the James Foster it seems that but seven out of a crew of over forty had ever been to sea before, and we believe that such is the ordinary state of affairs on board such vessels. Their owners cannot afford to engage able seamen, and the passengers are consequently exposed to the risks and delays consequent upon unskillful handling of the ship.

The time has come, we submit, for a searching investigation on both sides of the Atlantic into the whole subject, the result of which, we feel confident, would be fatal to the employment of sailing ships for emigrant purposes. The disclosures would assuredly be such as to urgently call for the adoption by all maritime countries of a system of supervision and a code of regulations for the protection of emigrants, more strict and less open to evasion than those now in use, which would virtually put an end to it. It is not, perhaps, a matter for negotiation, but it is one which ought, at least, to be pressed upon the attention of the Government authorities of all countries concerned.

The New Attempt at Interfering with Our Common Schools.

We publish elsewhere the bill relative to the Common schools of this City which was introduced to the Legislature on Saturday last. It originated with SWEENY & Co., and is substantially the same as was recommended in the columns of the Leader about the time the Legislature met. Its getters-up have recommended it to the favorable consideration of the Democratic members of the Legislature, upon the following grounds:

1. By the passage of this act the Board of Education will be "under the direct control of the organization" (SWEENY & Co.) instead of distinct school districts.

2. The Mayor will be sure to appoint twelve reliable men to act until the 1st of January, 1870, in which time the whole office appointees, &c., can be changed.

3. The employes and teachers of the public schools can then be compelled to pay their share toward the support of the party, the same as other City Departments.

4. The School Commissioners deserve no sympathy at the hands of the "organization," inasmuch as they refused to put a strict party man in as Clerk in place of the present incumbent, who has refused to obey the requests of the leaders of the party.

If the members of the Legislature consider these to be good and sufficient reasons for the passage of the bill, which has been drawn up by the "Ring" of this City, they will doubtless act accordingly.

The State Assembly Inviting Pestilence.

An uncalled-for and utterly unwise piece of legislation is that which has passed the State Assembly, and is now before the Senate, authorizing news-boats to board all vessels in the Lower Bay for the purpose of obtaining reports. We trust that the Senate has too much regard for the people to give its consent to so perilous a measure. The Quarantine laws, which are thus sought to be exceptionally evaded in behalf of a single newspaper, were established for the protection of the entire community. They are none too rigid in their requirements, and their exactions should be impartially executed. If those regulations are to be relaxed in favor of the newspapers, they may with as much propriety be broken for the advantage of individuals. The danger of communicating with infected vessels is no less in the one case than in the other. If safeguards against pestilence are of any sort of use they must be enforced without discrimination.

But it is the shallowest sort of a subterfuge to say that the proposed legislation is instigated by the daily journals of this City to facilitate the collection of ship news. They are entirely satisfied with the method at present employed to obtain this sort of information. It comes direct from the Health Officer of the Port, who is compelled to board every vessel arriving from a foreign country, and is transcribed from the accurate memoranda which the law compels that functionary to keep. In this manner the ship news is obtained without imperiling the safety of the public, and under no other arrangement is it possible to guard against contagious and infectious diseases.

We scarcely think that the proposed amendment of the Quarantine laws of 1869 will pass the Senate. It has passed the Assembly without due consideration on the part of the members; and Mr. JACOBS, of Kings County, who introduced the measure, has shown by his action a reckless disregard of the interests of his constituents.

The Indian Appropriations.

The adage that misfortunes never come singly is appreciated just now by the Indian Ring, whose joy over the defeat of the Transfer measure was made mourning by the Presidential appointments. The nomination of General COX, an officer identified with the Army policy of Indian management, to the Secretaryship of the Interior, was a severe blow; the nomination now probable, of Colonel PARKER as Indian Commissioner, would be the coup de grace. Between the War Bureau and the Interior as now constituted, the Ring has Hobson's choice; between Colonel PARKER and General RAWLINS, both of whom were members of GRANT'S staff, and in full sympathy with his Indian policy, there is nothing for the Ring to desire. The personnel of the Indian Department will be changed throughout, in any case. Meanwhile, the Indian Appropriation bill, which was the only one that flashed in the pan at the last session, is again under discussion; and the House resolution for appointing a Joint Committee on Indian affairs has been referred by the Senate to its own Committee on Indian affairs. There are no less than four propositions for regulating Indian affairs now before Congress. The first is the plan to transfer the Indian Bureau to the War Department. This passed in the House by a great majority, but was defeated by a majority as decisive in the Senate, last Session. However, some Senators assigned reasons (namely, the brevity of time for consideration,) which show that this project for transfer may get through the Senate during the present session, if revived. The second proposition was for the creation of the Indian Bureau into a separate Department. This plan originated in the Senate, and is hardly likely to carry many votes, as matters stand now. The third proposition is for a sort of dictum superior to be exercised over Indian affairs—the Army having charge of matters in time of war, and the Interior in time of peace. The fourth proposition is the one now pending, for a Joint Committee on Indian Affairs.

Meanwhile, the Indian Appropriation bill, which appropriates $8,424,000 for the ensuing year, came up in the House yesterday, as the special order. It is evident, however, from the reception of this bill, not only at the present session but at the last, that there is need of a thorough review of our Indian treaties, and the laying down of a broad policy of Indian management, based on general principles.

MINOR TOPICS

The long and short of the Cuban insurrection, so far as our Government is concerned, is simply this. If the revolutionary party achieve the independence of the island—and the proof of this would be given by their possession of Havana and Matanzas—our Government would recognize Cuban independence; but it would be a violation of international law to offer recognition to the party of rebellion before they have some assurance of success. If the Spanish authorities in Cuba outrage American citizens or violate American rights, our Government will promptly demand redress and satisfaction; but, at the same time, we acknowledge that there are certain necessities of the state of war in Cuba—as there were in this country during our war—which must be respected by other governments. So far as concerns any American citizens who may have joined the rebel army, they have of course placed themselves outside of the protection of our Government.

The murderous revolt of the prisoners at Sing Sing, yesterday, is not the only evidence we have had that there is something wrong about the management of the convicts at that place. The escape of prisoners has not been infrequent, and the opportunities of escape have been still more frequent. The Legislature should inquire into this matter before the adjournment.

The World has already begun its attempts to defeat the ambitious designs, which it imputes to GRANT, looking to an election to the Presidency for a second term. Why don't the World learn a lesson from its absurd failure to injure GRANT in the recent Presidential election?

The Tribune speaks of Colonel DE TROBRIAND as among the officers left "awaiting orders." This is a mistake. Colonel DE TROBRIAND is still Colonel of the Thirteenth Infantry under the new assignment, and remains as now in the Department of Dakota.

President JOHNSON ought to be known as the solo President, though it turns out on examination that he did not veto as extensively as has been supposed. The record is as follows during his term, in which two Congresses held five sessions: Total vetoes, 19; "pocket vetoes," 6; became laws without the President's signature, 16. Nearly all the bills he vetoed were promptly passed over the veto.

Senator FENTON goes for the repeal of the Tenure-of-Office bill,—thus following the instructions of the Legislature which elected him. But what about his colleague, Senator CONKLING?

A circumstance that ought to be explained is revealed through a couple of letters published in the Boston Advertiser, showing that the amount of revenue collected and amount of compensation paid in the State of Massachusetts and in the City of New-York, during the fiscal year ending with June last. The following aggregates will show the points of comparison, without going into detail:

	Total Collections.	Collectors' net Compensation.	Assessors' net Compensation.
Massachusetts	$17,752,23 67	$64,281 12	$20,152 72
New-York	22,266,762 52	34,625 00	27,722 75

It will be seen (says the Advertiser) that the collections in New-York are larger and the reported compensation less than in Massachusetts; but our Boston contemporary does not attempt anything like an explanation of the circumstances.

Three French women of Marseilles recently confessed to having poisoned their husbands, and the revelations made on the trial showed that it was a very common thing for the wives of that place to get rid of their husbands in this way as the easiest means of accommodating their lovers. We have now in the French papers the report of a trial at Montauban, in which eight women were convicted of pre-natal assassination of their babes, and one woman was tried for killing nine infants given her to nurse. Montauban seems to be as bad a place for babies as Marseilles is for husbands. But what frightful wives and mothers!

The English journals which fancy that the American people are determined to force a war upon England, are entirely mistaken. The interests of this country are opposed to a war with England, and the predominant sentiment is opposed to war upon any such issues as now exist. The Alabama claims are capable of settlement by negotiation, and all that is required of the English Government is to concede the just demands which we have against them. We assure our London contemporaries that the American people have not the slightest inclination to force a war upon England.

It is harder to be an editor in Peru than even in Richmond, to say nothing of Vicksburg. Our Lima correspondent gives two recent examples of editorial trials in that capital. The editor of the Nacional censured a Peruvian politician, whereupon, (says the letter,)

"His son entered the office, and without a word of warning, seized upon the heavy glass inkstand from the desk, and from which Señor VIAL was writing and broke it into atoms upon the unfortunate editor's head, cutting not only his own hands but the editor's head, to the extent that a considerable flow of blood resulted therefrom, that the editor had no opportunity to defend himself, and now lies in a very precarious state from the effects of his beating."

Another case is given in which President BALTA, the President of the Republic of Peru, has revealed his vengeance on the editor of the Comercio, for a newspaper assault. His Excellency not only lost all control of himself on this occasion, but suddenly flung the door open, called the guard, and ordered the editor to be shot on the spot. It was only after a disgraceful fight, in which the President used a chair as an effective weapon, that the unfortunate editor escaped. We have several times taken occasion to criticise President BALTA; but if he acts in this shameful manner we shall be compelled to denounce him as a first-class humbug.

A correspondent contends for the system of dockage across to Brooklyn, instead of a bridge, which, in his opinion, would be expensive, perilous, largely useless and generally mischievous. No doubt the idea of that long and lofty swing is not very comfortable to the fancy of a great many; but then, the engineer is not afraid, and would not be afraid, probably, if it was twice as broad. On the other hand, that smothering of the open channel seems too terribly utilitarian. A bridge, with wide buttresses, making three strides across, and leaving a wide space for passing ships in the centre, would be a compromise worth considering.

The Vanity Fair (London) is giving a series of exquisite colored caricatures of English statesmen. The two last numbers have illustrated the personality of that extraordinary orator and adjunct, the Right Hon. ROBT LOWE, and that stately and elegant Liberal, Right Hon. W. E. FORSTER, "who can make even the rinderpest and the sheep-pox to be endured, and whose name will live daily, in the newspapers as long as cows and sheep exist." If our American caricaturists would like to know how for they are behind the English, they should study this series.

The British House of Lords furnishes some very able antagonists of the Irish Church Establishment. Lord MONCK, the late Governor-General of Canada, who is an Irish Protestant, and an Irish Peer, has delivered a speech which was a surprise to the Lords. He not only demanded the disestablishment of the Irish Church, but he made the first declaration by a Churchman in Parliament that the general principle of Church establishments is doomed. He declared that "He did not desire to fight under false colors. He admitted that independently of the special circumstances of the Irish Church, he was, on principle and as a Churchman, opposed to all connection between Church and State. He believed that wherever that connection existed, the same blighting and benumbing influence would be found to affect the Church. Holding these views, he did not share in the gloomy forebodings of those who thought the Irish Church could not survive its severance from the civil power, for the experience he had had in Canada of the beneficial effect on the Church of throwing her upon her own resources precluded him from entertaining such apprehensions."

Banquet to Captain Duchesne.

In spite of the haste with which the arrangements for the complimentary banquet to Captain DUCHESNE and the officers of the Pereire were perfected, the reunion at DELMONICO'S uptown restaurant last evening will be long remembered. The object it was intended to accomplish, to wit—the offer of some marked evidence of appreciation of the recently-displayed courage of Captain DUCHESNE and his associates would have sufficed to secure that result. The number, quality and spirit of the gathering will, however, add to the pleasant recollection in which the affair will be held. Upward of one hundred persons were seated at 7 o'clock, when the proceedings were commenced, and remained in social intercourse until about midnight. Gathered under the auspices of the Cercle Francais de l'Harmonie, represented by an active and courteous Committee, including MM. E. Pottier, L. Monnier, B. Fromenthal, A. Fissurand, P. Arsand and E. Farinet, the guests were mostly French residents. The brief space of time that intervened between the formation of a plan for the banquet and its execution left little opportunity for bringing the subject before the general public. Hence the words, the wit and the wine were purely Gallic. A great deal of interesting conversation had and a few short speeches were listened to. When the repast was nearing its close, Professor ELIE CHARLIER proposed the health of Captain DUCHESNE, and that officer responded and suggested as a proper sentiment, "The American Navy." Mr. CHARLES A. DANA replied. "The American Press" was next referred to, Mr. FREDERICK A. SCHWAB speaking in acknowledgment of the toast. M. L. MERCIER answered for "The French Press," while the gratitude of the Cercle Français de l'Harmonie was adequately expressed by M. B. FROMENTHAL. All these speeches were made in French; the only English remarks listened to were very and cheerful. Captain DUCHESNE and the officers by Mr. CHARLES S. SPENCER, whose reference to the guests of the evening was flattering even of the Pereire, departing on a homeward voyage to-morrow, will assuredly bear with them, besides the good wishes of many friends, agreeable memories of their latest sojourn in this City.

American Geographical and Statistical Society.

The members of this Society, together with a number of ladies and gentlemen not members, met last evening in the small lecture-room of the Society in Cooper Institute.

Hon. CHARLES P. DALY occupied the chair, and after the reading of the minutes of former meetings, the regular reports of Committees and other formal business important only to members of the Society, he read a letter recently received by the Society from Rev. ALFRED BUSHNELL, a missionary to Africa, in which it was stated among other matters that Dr. LIVINGSTONE had been recently heard from, and would probably return Eastward.

A long communication was also read by the President from Captain BERT, formerly sailing-master of the United States ship Preble, while serving in the China seas, and now a resident of St. Louis, in which he sought to prove the course by way of Spitzbergen far more practicable than that heretofore pursued by way of Baffin's Bay, in an attempt to reach the North Pole. By that course Captain BERT claims the navigator would fall in with the great ocean current sweeping from the coast of Japan, similar to the Gulf Stream of the Atlantic, and by the moderating influence of which, in the Fall of the year, it is course be followed, the Polar Sea becomes comparatively easy of access.

It was stated, however, unfortunately for this theory, that the attempt suggested by Captain BERT had already been made, and resulted only in the navigators meeting barriers of ice utterly impassable. JOHN A. PARKER, Esq., then read a long lecture on "Polar Magnetism," assuming its origin to be purely astronomical. It was expected to hear Dr. HAYES, the enthusiastic Arctic explorer, make some criticism on the theory of Captain BERT, but the continuance of Mr. PARKER'S lecture until nearly 11 o'clock compelled a large portion of the audience to leave in disappointment.

Polytechnic Association.

The regular meeting of the Polytechnic Association took place at the Cooper Institute last night. The meeting was called to order at 7:30 P. M. by the Chairman, Dr. TILLMAN, whereupon Messrs. MASON, GIFFORD and EMERY opened the business of the evening with a few interesting chemical reports, after which Mr. STETSON entered into a somewhat lengthy but interesting description of the American, English and French systems of granting and publishing patents, giving to the former the credit of being superior in every particular. He said, also, that the American Patent Office was a source of pride to us, inasmuch as it was a magnificent building, composed of series of halls and galleries, in which were deposited some 50,000 models and numerous engravings. He also displayed a very fine photograph of it, and said there were

ALBANY.

The Appropriation Bill—Tax Commissioners' Bill—Theatre Tickets—Benzine Bill—Prevention Against Kerosene, &c.

From Our Own Correspondent.

ALBANY, Thursday, March 18, 1869.

The first hour of the session of the Assembly this morning was consumed in a heated discussion about the rights and privileges of Mr. KEEGAN, of New-York, who was excused, at his own request, from voting last evening on the ratification of the Constitutional Amendment, and afterward, and just before the vote was announced, demanded the right to have his vote recorded in the negative, and was declared out of order by the Speaker. This ruling of the Speaker was much commented on after the adjournment last evening, and Mr. HITCHMAN this morning made an effort to get it reversed, but without success. Mr. LA BAU having cited several precedents, (one of them the case of this same KEEGAN in 1868,) in support of the ruling, KEEGAN would not avail himself of the privilege of asking that he be recorded on the journal of to-day as voting against the Amendment, but insisted that his name should go on the roll-call of last evening as having voted in the negative. This being refused, his constituents remain unrepresented on that important question, and KEEGAN goes into history as a martyr to the "tyranny of the majority."

THE APPROPRIATION BILL.

The General Appropriation bill came up in Committee of the Whole to-day, and was passed to a third reading substantially as reported from the Committee of Ways and Means. The bill abolishes the three offices known as "State Assessors," and thus blasts the hopes of a trio of individuals who were expecting pleasant sinecure berths at the hands of the Governor.

PROTECTION AGAINST KEROSENE.

Mr. ALLEN introduced a bill to-day to protect the public against kerosene, naphtha, and other explosive fluids. It was referred to the Health Committee, where it will be fully considered and its main provisions, or something answering the same purpose, will be recommended for passage.

THE TAX COMMISSIONERS' BILL.

Senator CROWLEY took the privilege of stating to the Senate this morning that the reports in divers papers that he was to be one of the Republican Tax Commissioners for New-York, to be appointed by the Comptroller under the bill now pending in that body, was erroneous. The thing had never been suggested to him, and he would not take the office if it were offered him. He, moreover, resided 500 miles from New-York, and could not perform the duties of the office if he held it.

There will be no occasion for other persons to follow Mr. CROWLEY's example and decline an appointment, for, judging from present appearances, the bill will be killed in the Assembly, even if it passes the Senate.

THEATRE TICKETS.

The Senate Committee this morning reported favorably the bill, previously noticed, to prohibit the sale of theatre tickets except from the box office. This will put a stop to the present system of speculating upon reserved seats, which has become so great a nuisance.

SWAIN'S ELEVATED RAILWAY.

The Senate Railroad Committee reported favorably the bill known as "Swain's bill," authorizing the "New-York Railway Company" to construct an elevated and underground (twotier) railroad west of Broadway, from the Battery to and across Harlem River, buying the right of way through the entire route. The same bill was favorably reported in the Assembly last week, and is the first steam railroad for New-York City that has been reported by the Committee of either House.

THE EXCISE BILL IN THE SENATE.

The Excise bill introduced by Senator CREAMER was to-day taken out of the hands of the Committee and referred to the Committee of the Whole. Its main provisions are similar to the "Compromise" bill that has already passed the Assembly.

GENESEE COLLEGE.

The bill to remove Genesee College from Lima to Syracuse was ordered to a third reading in the Senate to-day. Seventy-five thousand dollars is to be set apart as a fund, the income of which is to go to the Lima Seminary until the scholarships are canceled, and then the principal is to be given to the Seminary. Caucus of Republican Assemblymen.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

ALBANY, Thursday, March 18.

An adjourned caucus of the Republican members of the Assembly was held this evening to consider the course to be taken on the TAX COMMISSIONERS' bill now pending in the Senate. The subject was discussed for two hours, and a variety of opinions were expressed as to the propriety of treating the bill from a party standpoint. The prevailing sentiment was that it should be so regarded. Mr. SELKRIG favored the bill, and expressed himself opposed to the whole batch of New-York Commissioners, believing them to be detrimental to the interest of the Republican Party in that City. The discussion finally resulted in the appointment of a committee consisting of Messrs. DAVIS, LA BAU and HECKMAN to examine the bill and consider the whole subject and report the result of their deliberations to a future caucus.

A committee was also appointed consisting of Messrs. HODGES, RICHMOND and GLEASON to consider and report what action the party should take in regard to the Compromise Excise bill, or any other bill modifying the present Metropolitan Excise law.

Messrs. CHASE, WEED and YOUNGLOVE were likewise appointed a committee to report what action the Assembly should take relative to STANFORD's bill repealing the canal contract system, which has been ordered to a third reading in the Senate.

Adjourned subject to call of Committee.

ASSEMBLY.

Mr. KEEGAN, who on the vote on the Constitutional Amendment was excused by the House from voting, and was not therefore permitted to vote, demanded to be recorded in the negative.

The Speaker refused the demand, on the ground that a member has no right to be recorded on the roll-call of the day previous.

Virtual Termination of the Paraguayan War—Cruelties of Lopez—He Addresses His Army and People—Removal of Marshal Caxias—Efforts to Promote Immigration.

From Our Own Correspondent.

BUENOS AYRES, S. A., Thursday, Jan. 28, 1869.

We are at or near the end of a fearful war. Paraguay, little, unknown and plucky, goes down. One Empire, rivaling European Russia in extent, united with two Republics, have done what they have undertook to do; they have put down LOPEZ. With LOPEZ falls the nation. Paraguay contended with twenty times her population, with a navy fifty fold superior and with financial resources of fabulous magnitude compared with her empty treasury. The forces in field were seldom in less proportion than two to one, and often the Allies had six, eight and even ten.

The persistence of the Paraguayans and their attachment, stronger than death, to the fortunes of LOPEZ, forms one of the most singular features of this war. Despotic, arbitrary, cruel, yet he was almost worshipped.

The close of the war has released many from fear, so that they can now speak out and tell what they saw and knew. Long-retained prisoners also, and foreigners who held office under him, have come to this city. We have means now of knowing thoroughly the character of the man.

There has also come to light the origin of the conspiracy excitement. The charge of conspiracy was the pretext for the execution of the Ex-Ministers, of the Vice-President, of high officers in the army, of foreigners, priests, and even his own brothers. It all amounted to this, and no more:

When the iron-clads appeared before Asuncion, carrying with them the news that they had passed the hitherto invincible Humaita, there was a general desire for a gathering at some public place to talk of common danger, and to devise means of defence.

LOPEZ regarded all the men who met that day and all the foreigners of the city as conspirators against him. The military officers he shot at sight, the civilians he tortured or imprisoned until they perished, or else he had them executed in some barbarous manner. The heart sickens over the deeds of perfidy and of blood done from that time till the close of the war.

There is no doubt in my mind that LOPEZ was preparing as fast as he could to involve Minister WASHBURN in the fate of many unfortunates, and but for the fact that the Wasp arrived before LOPEZ had made out a clean case, Mr. WASHBURN would never have left Paraguay. BLISS was quite ready for execution, and would have been executed had not LOPEZ seen how to make a better bargain with him. All these men secure from the menace of torture, have declared that they did not believe that any conspiracy existed.

LOPEZ halted long enough at Cerro Leon to send forth a proclamation to his countrymen to assure them that their cause was not lost; that they had suffered a defeat, but one that would urge them to new exertions, and that the temporary triumph of the Allies would only insure the ultimate destruction of the victors.

LOPEZ passed on to a place on the borders of the Cordilleras, in the midst of a fertile district, whither by previous orders all the people of the coast have been swept. There were the women and children and the victims of the war, such as the sick and wounded. Clothing is almost unknown among them, and food is dealt out in starvation quantities, and consists of a small supply of maize, manducca and beef, apportioned among them once a week. The men, as fast as they regain their strength, again enter the ranks and prepare for some kind of warfare, that will yet be annoying enough to the Allies. LOPEZ is only about thirty leagues away from Asuncion, and as yet no effort has been made to follow him.

Very important papers have been found, showing beyond all doubt the character of the Lopez administration. Official records exist concerning the executions of his countrymen and of foreigners.

All the towns and districts visited by the Allies are found to be deserted. The Paraguayans have fled no one knows whither, unless to the mountains. They have left everything that could not easily be taken along, and if the Allies have conquered, it is only the soil and hills of sand that have been secured by them.

Marshal CAXIAS, Commander-in-Chief of the Brazilian forces, has been removed. This order comes just after he has given the best proofs he ever gave of his qualities as a General. But the reason is probably to be ascribed to a previous inactivity that caused a loss of time and of money, if nothing more. His successor is Marshal GUILLERMO HAVIER DE SOSA, who comes to the front to take command at once.

Asuncion is occupied by the Brazilians, and every house is thronged by the new arrivals. Prices are enormous. Murders and robberies are plentiful. A general pillage first swept the city, and gathered the movable property into impromptu stores or newly-erected tents.

There is disappointment here over the unsatisfactory condition of Paraguay as a market. The demand for goods arises from the presence of the army there, and from that only. The Paraguayans are gone, and their land is a desert. If taxes are laid on the country to repay the expenses of the war, the Allies must yet literally make the country to produce the revenue.

One of the results of the war is the immediate opening of the river Bermejo. LOPEZ always prevented this. Now, a company is about to begin navigating this river. Six trips a year with a subsidy of $8,000, silver, per trip, are to be made. The Paraguayans, however, seem to have a natural impitiude for navigation. Recently, when the Republic succumbed, they sunk their steamers in the Paraguay river so as to impede navigation.

Great efforts are now being made to turn the tide of German emigration this way. During 1866 there were 30,000 immigrants to this Republic. The year of 1869 will probably see the arrival of 10,000 more. The Government is doing all in its power to favor immigration. Of late the chief arrivals are from Italy.

News for Harvard College Men—A New President—Who He Is—The Peace Jubilee Reclouded—Judge Hoar's Successor.

From Our Regular Correspondent.

BOSTON, Thursday, March 18, 1869.

It has just been announced that the Corporation of Harvard College have nominated CHARLES W. ELIOT, Esq., of the class of '53, to the vacant Presidency of the College, and that the Board of Overseers at their meeting an hour or so ago considered the nomination in secret session, but postponed action upon it until their next meeting in April. This news is occasioning a deal of talk and universal surprise among the Harvard men, and to most every one interested in the College is quite pleasant news.

WHO IS MR. ELIOT?

First of all, Mr. ELIOT is a young man; and for this there is much rejoicing, for the nomination of a young man,—a man who has live progressive ideas, as has Mr. ELIOT,—indicates that the new policy is to introduce young blood into the old place. Mr. ELIOT is from the pure old New-England stock, and is of the family of ELIOTS who have been identified with Boston for many years. His father was Hon. S. A. ELIOT, at one time our Representative in Congress, and at another our honored Mayor. And he is also a near relative of President ELIOT, of Trinity College, Hartford. Soon after graduating, Mr. ELIOT first became a tutor in the College at Cambridge, and then Adjunct Professor of Chemistry, from 1858 to 1862. Since his resignation of that office he has been connected with the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in this city, as a Professor, and there he has showed some of the ability and talent that is in him. He was abroad year before last in company with President ROGERS, of the Institute, when the latter was on his mission from Massachusetts to the Paris Exposition. Mr. ELIOT, while in College, was an oarsman, and was the stroke oar, if I am not misinformed, of the first Harvard Boat Club. So among the younger graduates and the boys who believe in the college oar, there is much joy to-day at the announcement that a retired college oarsman is likely to be the next President of their Alma Mater. Mr. ELIOT is a cultivated gentleman, and would fill the chair of President of the oldest college in the country with honor, grace and dignity. I understand that it is proposed to place Rev. ANDREW P. PEABODY, now acting President of the College, in the newly-created office of Vice-President.

THE PEACE JUBILEE RECLOUDED.

The managers of the Peace Jubilee have put their foot in it. They have played a sharp game on the too confiding people of Boston, and have in consequence brought down on their unlucky heads the wrath of those they have beaten, and the vengeance of the Daily Advertiser, which is damaging to their cause indeed, as among the displeased ones are many of the most prominent and influential Bostonians whose aid and encouragement they ought to have in order to inscribe success on their banners, and the Daily Advertiser is the mouth-piece of the best class in the City. Their "little game" was to get the necessary authority from the City Government to place their building—the "Grand Coliseum"—on the Common in the quickest and quietest manner possible, so as not to stir a breeze among those who don't want to see any building on the Common, because it's against the law and against the wishes of old Boston, who fear that, if the building is once allowed thereon, the doom of the Common, as a Common and public breathing-place, is sealed. So the way they did it was this, and a bungling way it was: They gave the world—the world of Boston, to understand that the scheme of building on the Common was abandoned, and that a new spot had been selected somewhere on the Back Bay lands, and then, last Monday, they went quietly up to the Board of Aldermen, presented a petition for "authority to erect a temporary building on the Common," one of their own circle, very conveniently a member of the Board, advocated granting the prayer of the petitioners at once, stating that it was necessary to give out the contracts for building without delay, &c., &c. The parties petitioning, singularly enough, being present, were heard, and by a good vote the request was granted by the Board. So the people of Boston read in their morning papers at breakfast on Tuesday that the right to build on the Common had been granted to the Jubilee people in defiance of the law, while on Monday afternoon they read the announcement of the intention to build elsewhere. Truly, the managers have made an unfortunate mistake, and if they don't change their course and abandon the Common they will have trouble, and perhaps rush their enterprise into inglorious defeat. A petition, or at least petitions, for there are two or three, are circulating among the business people protesting against the use of the Common by the Jubilee people, and is receiving many signatures. If the festival should be a tame affair because of the tempest raised among the people through this sly trick played upon them by the managers, there will be good cause to ridicule Boston. It is given out to-day that Hon. ALEXANDER H. RICE, late member of Congress, has accepted the position of President of the Peace Jubilee organization, to which he was elected a day or two ago. Other prominent men have been added to the working force, and there seems to be just now a prospect of peace between the managers and the people, on the Common question, by the withdrawal of the former from that sacred field.

JUDGE HOAR'S SUCCESSOR.

Another Richmond is in the field. I am informed that an effort is making by the Massachusetts delegation at Washington to have Hon. THOMAS ELIOT, who represented the First District in Congress, in the place on the Supreme Bench made vacant by Judge HOAR's resignation. MUNROE.

The Howard University Buildings.

From the Washington Intelligencer, March 16.

A committee of the Trustees of the Howard University have recently made an investigation in relation to the construction and safety of the buildings of this institution, and have submitted a report covering about one hundred and twenty manuscript pages. We have been furnished with the following abstract of this report:

"The Committee have the testimony of eight contractors and builders, two experts in testing building materials, and one chemist. The questions considered were the capacity of the 'building block' to bear pressure, and the action of the elements.

"All these witnesses concur in saying that the buildings are well constructed, stand erect, unspring, and free from the ordinary defects of an unsound structure. They say, one with a practical experience of twenty years as a builder, and having lived ten years by a building of the same material, that he sees no good cause why these buildings should be considered unsafe in any particular whatever; another, that, in his judgment, they are perfectly safe, so far as material and construction are concerned; four of them, that they are absolutely strong and safe. One doubted his data about the material, but says the buildings stand much better than he expected. Two express an unfavorable opinion, based upon an experiment with a single 'specimen brick,' and that not a fair specimen, because it proved to have been recently made. One or two thought it would be well to use iron shoring or brick to strengthen the walls.

"Four series of experiments, with from five to sixteen specimens each, were had to test the amount of pressure the block will bear. With an India rubber plate on the surfaces, (which was fully proved to have a tendency to bear the block asunder,) they bore from 6,000 to 10,000 pounds pounds each. In another series the average was over 10,000, and those of the same age bore 30,000, or twice as much, in a thin plaster bed, as between the rubber plates. But under the most unfavorable conditions they bore from two and two-third times to four times the weight required at the bottom of the building; in more favorable conditions, six times; while the architect of the Capitol says twice the amount is sufficient for safety. In a plaster bed, which is nearest the state of the material in the walls, five blocks averaged 21,600, which is ten times what is required; and experts at the Navy-yard who have used the machine nearly twenty years in testing all kinds of building material, say that the block, by being supported on three sides, or all sides, in the wall, will bear twice as much as singly in the machine.

"The blocks harden, both by age and the action of the elements, in the wall. The increase of the pressure they bore averaged 1,000 pounds per month. The outside half blocks bore nearly 1,000 pounds more than the inside. Experiments of frequent wetting and drying, with the weighing of the block after each wetting, prove that they gradually diminish, and finally cease to absorb water; and that they bear, when several months old, the wetting and freezing of Winter, when common brick will crumble to pieces. The outer parts, on a chemical examination, are found to be a carbonate of lime, and with sufficient age, to be all changed from a hydrate to a carbonate, (in which the strength of the material seems mainly to consist,) and to be equally hard in all parts. The blocks longest laid in the wall, in the first and second stories, were found not to be injured by storms and frosts, except where the wall had been saturated by a leaky spout. The experiments all tend to show that when the blocks have sufficient age to be laid in the wall some time before cold weather, they do not suffer by storms and frosts, but grow stronger by the exposure.

"The testimony also shows that the material used in the Freedmen's Hospital (which has been confounded with the University buildings) was new, some of it made with impure sand, and laid partly in very cold weather, so that it froze in the walls, and thus crumbled and fell upon thawing out. But very little used in the University buildings (in the upper story and chimneys) was so new, and none was laid in such cold weather. The material is fully proved to be strong enough for such large buildings, if well made and of sufficient age before being used.

"The buildings appear to be strong, showing no signs of failure, so that the Committee cannot recommend the adoption of shoring or any measure of strengthening whatever, believing them to be abundantly safe. They find that those who have experimented most with the material, and seen most of the buildings, are most assured of their safety and durability."

SING SING.

Two Revolts of Convicts in the Prison—Three Keepers Attacked—One Killed—Several Prisoners Wounded.

From Our Own Reporter.

SING SING, Thursday, March 18, 1869.

Two desperate attempts to escape were made by a number of convicts yesterday in the State Prison at this place. The first occurred between 5 and 6 o'clock in the morning. The party consisted of HENRY O'NEIL, alias Lockwood, GEORGE LOWDER, alias Decker, JOHN BURNS, HENRY MULLER and JOHN MULVEY, who were all employed in the mess-room and were required to rise before daylight in order to prepare breakfast for the rest of the convicts. In effecting their purpose they bound and gagged two keepers, THOMAS FORREST and EDWIN A. CRAFT, the latter of whom died speedily of strangulation. Parties were immediately dispatched in search of the fugitives, and O'NEIL, BURNS and MULLER were caught in the afternoon in the barn of JACOB STORMS, near Tarrytown. The two latter were returned to the prison before 6 o'clock and examined. O'NEIL, who was captured at a later hour, was badly wounded, and remained through the night at Tarrytown.

THE SECOND ATTEMPT.

In the meantime, another party, employed in the shoe shop, consisting of James McCauley, Philip Allen, Daniel O'Connell, Edward McGinn, Timothy Donovan, Buck, Miller, and Donnelly, attempted an escape upon the lumber sloop Exchange, lying at the prison dock. Three of the convicts approached Mr. SCHUY, a guard, one of whom, McCAULEY, seized him by the throat, and drawing a knife from his pocket told him fiercely not to move or he would cut his intestines out. The rest then broke open a closet of the shoe-shop, containing arms, and took out a number of revolvers and carbines, after which, accompanied by McCAULEY, they rushed on board the sloop, cut her loose, and drifted into the stream. During these proceedings several officers of the prison, on an alarm being given by SCHUY, hastened to the spot and fired on the fugitives, who returned the fire, but without effect. McCAULEY finally dropped, with a wound in the thigh and one in the back, the latter of which proved very serious. He was speedily followed by ALLEN, who was hit in both thighs. The rest then called out, "We'll give in. Stop firing, and we'll come back." By this time the sloop was several rods from the shore. A boat went to her, and she was again made fast. The prisoners were then all secured.

McCAULEY lies in a dangerous condition. He was a desperate fellow, and was sentenced in October, 1867, to twenty years' confinement for burglary. ALLEN was imprisoned for grand larceny, under a five years' sentence.

THE CORONER'S INQUEST.

In the afternoon, Coroner J. McENTEE, of Croton, N. Y., held an inquest in the prison over the body of Mr. CRAFT. The first witness sworn was Thomas Forrest, a small, compactly-built man of 35. He said he was a keeper in the prison, and was in the habit of unlocking the mess-room convicts at about 5 A. M., in order to prepare breakfast; as they passed from their cells yesterday morning, nothing unusual suggested itself; as he reached the chapel door, which was of iron, O'Neil, one of the convicts, said there was a corpse in the chapel; he passed by the men and found the corpse; as he turned to go down stairs O'Neil seized him round the neck with his right arm; some one then struck him in the pit of the stomach which rendered him for a short time unconscious; on recovering his senses he found his legs tied; O'Neil was holding his right hand and Burns had his knee on his left arm, and was trying to get a gag into his mouth. His teeth were closed so firmly that he at first failed to do so; Burns said, "Open your mouth. If you don't I'll cut you." He held a knife in his hand; the blade was about four inches long; by a continual pressure of the gag against the teeth of the witness; Burns finally succeeded in getting it in his mouth; O'Neil said there should not be a hair of his head hurt, as he thought too much of him; while O'Neil spoke, Burns and Decker tied his hands; at that time Muller was standing at the head of the stairs; O'Neil spoke to Muller upon going away; Muller said: "I don't want anything to do with it;" Muller and Burns went down stairs together, having in their possession the key of the mess-room door; Decker and O'Neil carried witness half way down the staircase, and then left him to follow Muller and Burns; O'Neil soon returned and said, "We've got him;" he then went away, Decker came in a few moments afterward and asked witness if he was cold; he then carried him to the cook-room, and disappearing, left him on a molasses box; while sitting there he heard the fugitives at work on the roof; he managed to get one hand in his pocket, and taking his knife out, tried to cut the cord round his wrists, but found the knife too dull; he heard talking, but distinguished nothing; he finally succeeded in getting a boot off; this freed his feet, but he could not relieve himself of the gag; he groaned, with the hope of attracting the attention of Craft, and looked in various places for him without success; about five o'clock Dooley was going his rounds, and witness attracted his attention by pounding on the window; he made a sign for him to take his gag off, but he thought witness was joking and tapped his mouth slightly; he then found his mistake, and released him by cutting the cord; he then started off to ring the alarm bell, while witness searched for Craft; he finally found him in charge of Auser and Burroughs, who said he was dead.

James J. Auser, a night keeper, testified to finding Mr. Craft dead; he was lying flat upon his back; witness cut his hands loose and turned him over; he found him gagged, and in cutting the gag loose, it bounded violently from the mouth, owing to its extreme tightness; it was a piece of a broomstick, placed in deceased's mouth like a bit and tied tightly behind his neck; he was thus prevented from shouting; his legs were also tied; he was carried into a back room and laid on a cot, and pronounced dead by the convict who had charge of the dishes.

Dr. Isaac J. Collins testified to Craft being dead, through suffocation caused by gagging and exhaustion in struggling to set free.

Wm. H. Dooley testified to finding Forrest unable to speak, and to releasing him.

The verdict of the jury was that EDWIN A. CRAFT came to his death by being gagged and having his feet and arms tied, and by being placed in a helpless condition, thereby causing suffocation, by the convicts HENRY O'NEILL, alias Lockwood, GEORGE BROWDER, alias Decker, JOHN BURNS and HENRY MULLER, who were accessories.

RECAPTURE OF BURNS, MULLER AND O'NEILL.

Before 5 o'clock BURNS and MULLER were returned to the prison from Tarrytown. They had lain several hours under hay, and having been seen to enter, were caught by GEORGE and CALEB STORMS, who had previously searched for them without success. They were finally discovered by their cries, on pitchforks being run into them through the hay, and were delivered, under cover of a revolver, to Constable A. LAWRENCE, in the village. They were reticent on their return respecting the escape; but MULLER said that his time would have been up in five months, and that he would not have participated in it if he had not been threatened with a knife. Both turned pale on hearing of CRAFT's death, and said there was no desire on the part of any of the fugitives to harm either keeper; they only desired to escape.

Coroner McENTEE examined the two men on their arrival. Both corroborated the statement of Mr. FORREST, in regard to his gagging, but knew nothing of the gagging of Mr. CRAFT. BURNS said he had already cut a board in the roof, and had only to pull some slates out to enable the whole party to emerge. The plot was arranged the previous afternoon.

A telegram arrived during the proceedings, saying that O'NEIL had also been captured, in Mr. STORMS' barn, but was badly wounded with a pistol ball, and could not be returned to the prison before to-day.

It is a fact worth noting that there are but thirty keepers in the prison to guard 1,555 men and 126 women. The number is limited to that amount by a law which was passed when the prison contained but 600 convicts. But one other keeper besides CRAFT has been killed since the occupation of the prison.

Without a Good Digestion

All other temporal blessings are comparatively worthless. The dyspeptic millionaire, who has tried all the potions of the medical profession in vain, and believes his complaint to be incurable, would give half his fortune to be freed from the horrors of indigestion, and thus enabled to enjoy the other half. Of course he does not.

Perhaps HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS has been recommended to such a sufferer. Possibly he has turned from the friend who made the suggestion with a laugh, incredulous that anything in the form of any "patent medicine." If this has been the case, so much the worse for him. His incredulity dooms him to a life of misery. All the luxuries which wealth can purchase are at his command. Not one of them can give him pleasure. His own irrational obstinacy is his bane.

The sufferer, happily for themselves, are less skeptical. There is such a thing as bigoted unbelief, as well as bigoted credulity, and a golden mean between the two, which men and women who are gifted with common sense adopt and profit by. These are the class that patronize and recommend HOSTETTER'S BITTERS. Why do they approve this famous anti-dyspeptic and anti-bilious preparation? Simply because they have been so much the slaves of senseless prejudice to give it a fair trial, and have found that when all other tonics, stimulants and stomachics failed, it produced the desired effect.

A Stitch in Time, but hear," said the Roman sage, when his ignorant enemies were assailing him. "Doubt, but try," says the man who has been cured of indigestion, or biliousness, or intermittent fever, by the Bitters, as he relates his experience of the medicine to his invalid friends. Whoever is so wedded to his own foregone theoretical conclusions, as to decline to test the properties of a medicine indorsed by the testimony of intelligent men in every walk of life, and approved by the people at large, deserves to suffer.—Advertisement.

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS.

Yesterday was quite a stirring day, the salerooms were well filled, the bidders really anxious to buy, and the prices brought were generally satisfactory. The appearance altogether was much more brisk than for some days past, and the old enthusiasm seemed to be revived.

Messrs. BLESCKER & Co. had quite an important sale in the estate of the late Alderman WM. TAYLOR, and the prices brought by the various pieces of property belonging to this estate were very much larger than the most sanguine of the heirs ever hoped for. The crowd around the stand was large, the bidding prompt, and a most satisfactory feeling seemed to exist between the auctioneer and his audience. It was an unreserved sale, no limitations were made, and the property was disposed of to the highest bidders. These facts, when announced, had a good effect, and unquestionably contributed toward the success of the sale. One lot on the corner of Houston and Attorney streets, 20x92, was started at $18,000, ran up very quickly and was finally knocked down at $19,600; the next adjoining, on Houston-street, same size, $12,800, and the next $11,300. One lot on the southeast corner of Thirty-sixth-street and Seventh-avenue brought $15,250; five others on Seventh-avenue, between Thirty-fifth and Thirty-sixth streets, $9,500 to $12,500 each. The other lots brought equally good prices. The sale of the whole of the New-York property amounted to $244,225. The Brooklyn property will be sold at the new City salerooms, No. 18 Court-street, to-day, commencing at 12 o'clock. The "Collyer-ship-yard" property did not sell quite so well; this was possibly caused by the manner in which it was offered; the parcels were too large. One plot embraced fourteen lots, valued at from $2,000 to $4,000 each. There were several gentlemen present who desired to buy two or three lots, and who came prepared to bid for them, but when it was announced that fourteen lots were to be sold together, they withdrew; the quantity was too great; they were unable to compete. Had the first sale been two lots, with the privilege of two, four or six more, these gentlemen would certainly have entered into the contest, and very likely would have purchased. The result, though, was very fair, the property realizing the sum of $108,400.

The sales of country property were, as usual, very well attended and the sales brisk. Messrs. JOHNSON & MILLER sold the property at Mott Haven, Buena Ridge and East Tremont, all at good rates. They also disposed of a number of lots at Woodhaven, L. I., at prices ranging from $100 to $175 each. M. J. COLE'S SON had quite an important sale of Brooklyn property, and Messrs. WYCKOFF & LITTLE and MULLER, WILKINS & Co. had smaller sales in the same city.

Taken altogether the market was very firm with a slight upward tendency, and it is quite possible that next week will prove considerably better than this; such at least are the present indications. Several sales are announced for the present and coming week of very valuable up-town property.

In the grand rush for Boulevard and west side lots, people seem to have forgotten that other equally well located, and in some instances much more desirable lots are located on the east side of the Island. Some that possess advantages over those which have been most in demand. There are many things to be considered when buying lots on which to build a mansion, besides their proximity to some grand drive; whether it is high and healthy ground, or low and marshy; whether it overlooks stagnant pools or other nuisances, or is surrounded by firm open country, over which the strong, health-giving winds have free sweep, and whether the neighborhood, when it is built up, will contain only first-class houses, or whether it is likely to be occupied for manufacturing or other purposes which may prove objectionable, and which will consequently injure the adjoining property. On Fifth-avenue, along the east side of the Central Park, there are numerous delightful sites; on Madison and Fourth avenues there are many more. They are convenient to the business portions of the City, of easy access by the horse cars, and are in every way desirable. Such lots seldom appear in the market; when they do they are eagerly sought after and promptly bought up. Central Park is fast becoming one of the most perfect and beautiful parks in the world, and there is no reason why the high healthy ground on its east side should not be quite as valuable as the famous "west side lots."

To-day the salerooms do not offer the attractions they did earlier in the week, yet there are some sales of considerable interest. Messrs. MULLER, WILKINS & Co. will sell about nineteen acres of uplands and six acres of water front on the northern extremity of New-York Island, being nearly half a mile in extent on the Hudson River and Spuyten Duyvil Creek, and a short distance from Tubby Hook Station. Also, four lots with improvements, Nos. 60, 62, 64 and 66 Cannon-street, and other valuable property on Suffolk, Stanton, Fortieth and Forty-fifth streets, to close an estate.

Messrs. JOHNSON & MILLER will sell several pieces of improved Brooklyn property, viz.: No. 239 Court-street, No. 74 Third-place, Nos. 294 and 298 Henry-street, No. 101 Amity-street, and No. 299 Pearl-street; also two vacant lots on Amity-street, near Hicks-street.

PEREMPTORY SALE

VAN NATER ESTATE,
Due to a
FIVE HUNDRED DESIRABLE LOTS
AT MASPETH.
By JOHNSON & MILLER, Auctioneers,
On THURSDAY, March 25, 1869,
At 12 o'clock M.,
EXCHANGE SALESROOM,
No. 111 Broadway, New-York.

GENTLEMEN, MECHANICS, and others of small means, wishing to purchase lots and build themselves homes, will find the VAN NATER PROPERTY the best available property of any that has been offered. This property is free of any lien to take a thorough examination of every lot before the sale. Its SEVENTY PER CENT. CAN REMAIN THREE YEARS.

MASPETH
is not a new place; there are over [illegible] hundred houses, stores, hotels, &c., on the line of this estate, already sold.

A new Methodist church has just been finished on the Corner of Perry and Claremont sts.

Maspeth is much nearer the business part of New-York than Flushing, New-Utrecht, Bay Ridge or Gravesend, being only a little over to 34th-st., 2nd-st., 39th-st., Houston-st., Grand-st., Canal-st. and Jackson-st.
THREE MILES FROM THE FERRIES
THE TRACK IS LAID
FOR THE NEWTOWN AND MASPETH HORSE RAILROAD
from Grand and North 5th ferries, through Maspeth-av., in front of the property, on which cars will, probably, be running early in the Summer.

THE DE BEVOISE RAILROAD
from Newtown, also passing through Maspeth-av. A new road is now being built to Newtown, crossing the property, and near the point at which it is proposed to build a horse railroad.

MASPETH is located between the South side and Flushing Railroads, being about half a mile from Winfield and Maspeth Stations. The Van Nater property is only a few hundred feet from Maspeth stations on the Winfield and South side railroad.

Being just outside the City limits, the taxes are very small, amounting to about fifty cents each lot, per annum.

These lots will be sold for lower prices than are be-[illegible] for the best lots located on Long Island, New-York a mile and a half further from the ferries, and they will be worth more than the East New-York lots as soon as the horse cars are started.

To reach the property, take the North 21st or Grand-st. cars from either of the Williamsburg ferries to Bushwick, and there take the Maspeth and Newtown horse cars, which pass the Van Nater property. FORTY-FIRST CONGRESS.

FIRST SESSION.

SENATE.....WASHINGTON, March 18.

Mr. SUMNER presented a memorial asking the Government of the United States to issue a call for an International Congress of Republicans.

BILLS REPORTED.

Mr. HAMLIN reported, from the Committee for the District of Columbia, the bill to incorporate the Washington General Hospital Asylum, which was passed.

Mr. WILSON, from the Committee on Military Affairs, reported a joint resolution authorizing the sale of the Chattanooga Rolling Mills of the Southwestern Iron Company, which was passed.

Mr. ABBOTT, from the Committee on Military Affairs, reported a bill to remove the charge of desertion from certain soldiers of the Second North Carolina Mounted Infantry, which was passed.

Mr. RAMSEY, from the Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads, reported without amendment a bill to encourage and facilitate telegraphic communication with Europe.

It authorizes the American Atlantic Cable Company, of New-York, to take any route for laying their cable to Europe.

Also, with amendments, the bill to declare a post road the railroad and bridges of the New-Orleans, Mobile and Chattanooga Company, to be constructed westward from New-Orleans.

RESOLUTIONS AND BILLS REFERRED.

Mr. MORTON introduced a bill for the construction of a military wagon-road through the Territories of Dakota, Montana and Washington. Referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. CHANDLER introduced a bill to provide for the enrolling and licensing certain foreign vessels, which was passed.

Mr. SCOTT introduced a bill to aid in the building of a rolling mill in the City of Washington. Referred.

Mr. HAMLIN introduced a bill relating to the operation of the Pension laws and for other purposes. Referred.

Mr. NYE introduced a bill to provide for the construction of a military and postal road from Galveston, Texas, to Fort Gibson, in the Indian Territory, with a branch to Little Rock, Ark. Referred to the Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads.

Mr. HARLAN introduced a bill to provide for the erection of a market-house in Washington. Referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Mr. ROSS offered a joint resolution authorizing the Commissioner of Indian Affairs to appoint guardians for minor Indian children, who may be entitled to pensions. Referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

Mr. RYE offered a concurrent resolution, which was agreed to, for the appointment of a select committee to examine the condition of the Senate Chamber as regards heating, lighting and ventilation.

Mr. CONKLING introduced a bill to regulate proceedings for the naturalization of aliens, which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary. It is substantially the same bill as the one reported from the Committee last session.

Mr. KELLOGG introduced (as he stated, by request) a bill to provide for the construction of a railroad and telegraph line near the thirty-second parallel to the Pacific coast. Referred to the Committee on the Pacific Railroad.

The bill incorporates the Mississippi, El Paso and Pacific Railroad Company, and authorizes it to construct a line from Fulton, Ark., via El Paso and the southeastern boundary of California, to San Francisco, with a branch to San Diego, and in aid of the enterprise grants twenty sections per mile on each side, and guarantees payment of the interest on the bonds of the Company to the amount of $12,000 in bonds per mile.

PRINTING A PRIVATE JOURNAL.

Mr. EDMUNDS offered a resolution directing the Committee on Printing to inquire into the expediency of procuring and printing the journal of Lieut.-Gen. WILLIAM McCRAY, formerly of Pennsylvania, containing a sketch of the secret debates of the Senate. He had been prompted to offer this resolution by the receipt of a letter from GEORGE W. HARRIS, a respectable and venerable citizen of Harrisburg, setting forth the value of the journal and giving an index to its contents.

Mr. MORTON thought that if the remainder of the journal was like the extracts read by the Senator from Vermont (Mr. EDMUNDS) the other day in the debate on the Tenure-of-Office act, it was hardly worth publishing. [Laughter.]

The resolution was agreed to.

PRIVATE RELIEF.

Mr. WILSON called up the bill for the relief of ORLANDO BROWN, which was passed.

THE NATIONAL CURRENCY.

On motion of Mr. SHERMAN, the bill supplemental to the act to provide national currency secured by a pledge of United States bonds, was taken up.

Mr. WILSON offered an amendment, which was read.

THE TENURE-OF-OFFICE BILL.

The expiration of the morning hour put the bill over and brought up as unfinished business the bill to repeal the Tenure-of-Office act.

Mr. MORTON resumed his argument in favor of repealing the law. He was unable to see any force in the arguments against its repeal. If, if there was any force in them they were equally good against suspension. If these arguments were sound, then the law was an admirable and necessary one, and ought to be left unchanged; but the proposal to suspend it was really a confession that there was a constitutional question underlying the law, and that whether it should be repealed, suspended or retained was merely a question of expediency.

Mr. DAVIS was in favor of unconditional repeal. He had always been opposed to the law, the purpose of which, he understood, was to bring upon the President and subjugate him to the dictation of the Radical majority of the two Houses of Congress. He would vote for the repeal of the law, not because of his confidence in President GRANT, and not because, some hold, he had declared it to be unconstitutional and void. To prove that it was so Mr. DAVIS spoke for two hours and a half.

Mr. BROWNLOW then obtained the floor. He was too feeble to read his remarks, so they were read by the Secretary.

The passage of the Tenure-of-Office act, he said, marked an important era in the history of our Government. It had imposed a long, needed check upon the usurpation of powers by the Executive, and the advantages resulting from such a check will not, any one, be yielded up. He was, therefore, opposed to the repeal of the law, although willing it should be modified as far as Congress might think expedient. The chief reason given for repealing it seemed to be the confidence of Congress and the people in President GRANT, but that seemed to him no reason at all. No one within or outside of the Chamber had a higher estimate than he of President GRANT's character; but in considering such a proposition as the one now pending, he would look not to the chief of State, but to anything so unreliable as individual character, or to evanescent as individual life.

Mr. SCOTT next took the floor, but immediately after yielded for a motion to adjourn.

Mr. TRUMBULL announced that he would press the Senate to a vote before adjourning to-morrow.

Then, at 4 o'clock, P. M., the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

On motion of Mr. HOPKINS the Senate joint resolution authorizing the removal from the Capitol grounds of the public stables, steam sawmill, &c., was taken up from the Speaker's table and passed.

Various resolutions in reference to contested elections, referring to papers extending the time of taking testimony, &c., were offered and referred to the Committee on Elections. One of them, offered by Mr. WOODWARD, in relation to the Twenty-first District of Pennsylvania (Mr. COWDEN), gave rise to considerable discussion. Finally, at 5 o'clock, the discussion closed, and the resolution was, on motion of Mr. SCOFIELD, laid on the table; yeas 109, nays 44.

ATLANTIC CITY.

Mr. KELLEY presented a memorial from the Philadelphia Commercial Exchange praying Congress to take such action as will prevent the encroachments of the sea from reaching the lighthouse at Atlantic City.

A COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE.

The Speaker announced that he had appointed Messrs. WELKER, JENCKES and NIBLACK a Conference Committee on the concurrent resolution for the appointment of a joint Committee on Reconstruction.

The disagreement is as to the composition of the Committee; the House desiring to have it composed of four Senators and seven Representatives, and the Senate desiring to have it composed of three Senators and three Representatives.

DISTILLED SPIRITS AND TOBACCO.

Mr. HOOPER, from the Committee on Ways and Means, reported a bill to amend the act of the 20th of July, 1868, imposing taxes on distilled spirits and tobacco, which was ordered to be printed and recommitted.

The bill modifies, to some extent, the provisions of the law as to the ownership of real estate on which distilleries stand; as to what constitutes real estate; and as to revenue stamps on tobacco and snuff, and extends to the 20th of April, 1869, the time for withdrawing distilled spirits from bonded warehouses subject to an additional tax of one per cent. per gallon per month.

CIVIL OFFICERS IN VIRGINIA AND TEXAS.

Mr. FARNSWORTH, from the Committee on Reconstruction, reported a substitute for the Senate joint resolution as to the removal of civil officers in Virginia and Texas.

The substitute provides that the officers named in the act of the States of Virginia, Mississippi and Texas shall, within thirty days, be compelled to take oath of office, or the civil offices so vacated shall be filled.

Mr. FARNSWORTH explained briefly the meaning and effect of this substitute.

Mr. BUTLER, of Massachusetts, expressed his regret that he was compelled to oppose the first resolution reported to the House from the Committee of which he was Chairman. He proceeded to argue against it, contending that there was no necessity for it, and that its effect would be to rehabilitate officers who were disqualified by their holding office. He read a telegraphic dispatch from a ex-officer of the New-York Legislature, now a citizen of Virginia, stating that Chesterfield County looked to him (BUTLER) to protect them in the Republican struggle in that State, and not to extend the thirty days, so that they could aid of the enemy, and would destroy the Unionists.

Mr. MAYNARD inquired whether the resolution was to be considered as a Republican or as a Democratic measure.

Mr. FARNSWORTH replied that he labored it as a Republican measure.

Mr. BUTLER—And I suppose it is a Democratic measure.

Mr. FARNSWORTH—As I am the older Republican, my testimony is, at least, as good as that of the gentleman from Massachusetts.

Mr. BUTLER—Nothing but wine and cheese improved by age.

Mr. FARNSWORTH—I believe I was a Republican before the gentleman from Massachusetts was in the Republican swaddling clothes.

Mr. PAINE, the junior member of the Reconstruction Committee, expressed regret at being compelled to differ from the majority of the Committee, but he regretted still more that the majority of that Committee could be found willing to recommend such a resolution to the House. He hoped the House would not pass it. He had not seen a measure this Congress that seemed fraught with more danger to the peace and safety of those three unfortunate States. The question will whether the Union shall yet be a holding oligarchy should still hold the power. This resolution would turn the scale in favor of the disloyal—of those who opposed the Congressional plan of reconstruction, and against the true and tried men who had served Congress and the country and legislative enactments, and struggled against all odds to save those States to the Government.

Mr. FARNSWORTH defended the action of the Committee, arguing that the effect of the resolution would be to leave to General GRANT the selection of civil officers in Virginia, instead of compelling General SHERIDAN to fill the offices in the next two or three days.

The House refused to second the previous question by 30 to 70, and the joint resolution and amendment were, on motion of Mr. WARD, submitted to the Committee on Reconstruction.

PRIVATE BILLS.

The joint resolution reported yesterday by Mr. BINGHAM, from the Judiciary Committee, for the relief of BLANTON DUNCAN, of Kentucky, was then taken up and discussed by Messrs. BINGHAM, SCOFIELD, BEAM and MAYNARD. The question was then taken on the amendment offered yesterday by Mr. SCOFIELD, providing that Mr. DUNCAN shall first release all claims for rents or use of his property prior to the passage of this act. The amendment was agreed to, yeas 80, nays 71.

Mr. WARD moved to lay the resolution on the table. Negatived, yeas 61, nays 79.

The joint resolution was then passed, yeas 83, nays 37.

THE UNITED STATES COURT.

Mr. BINGHAM introduced a bill to amend the act of July 23, 1866, providing for holding United States Courts in cases of sickness or other disability of the Judge. Also, a bill to secure and protect the freedom of transportation and commerce. Referred to the Judiciary Committee.

The Speaker announced that he had appointed Mr. LAWRENCE, of Ohio, to fill the vacancy on the Reconstruction Committee, to take rank next before Mr. BECK.

The House then, at 4 o'clock, adjourned.

NEEDLESS APPROPRIATIONS.

Letter from Hon. George W. McCrary, of Iowa.

WASHINGTON, March 8, 1869.

G. W. Pittman, Esq., Keokuk:

MY DEAR SIR: Some time prior to my leaving home for this city, a petition signed by the Grand Jury of Lee County, and yourself as foreman, was placed in my hands, asking me to vote for and advocate the erection of a public building in Keokuk, for the use of the Post Office, Federal Courts, revenue and custom offices, &c. I trust it is scarcely necessary for me to assure you that it would afford me great pleasure to oblige the petitioners, if I felt at liberty to do so.

It would be very gratifying to me to be able to do them a personal favor. I am also desirous of doing everything in my power to advance the material prosperity of Keokuk. I have, however, after a careful consideration of the subject, decided that I cannot at present support such a measure as that contemplated by the petitioners, and I feel that it is due to them that I state the reasons which induce me to refuse their request. I'm considering my duty as a representative of the people, I think I have, at least one point very satisfactorily, at least to myself. It is this: No more money should be taken from the Treasury for works of internal improvement, except such as are now commenced, nor for the purpose of erecting public buildings which the Government can do without, until the credit of the Government is restored, and the national debt, if not paid, is at least greatly reduced. I will not, in this letter, discuss the propriety of this rule. I think upon reflection, the petitioners themselves will cheerfully approve it. Unless convinced that I am wrong, I shall steadily adhere to it as a rule for the government of my official action in all cases to which it will apply. You will at once perceive that, guided by this proposition, I cannot vote, at present, for an appropriation for public buildings at Keokuk; because the Government can do without them. I do not say such buildings are not needed. I agree with the petitioners, that they would be a very great convenience to the Government. I only say that they are not indispensable. Congress should act impartially. No favors should be shown to any particular locality. I cannot ask for my own city that which I would not be willing to grant to other cities throughout the country, of equal importance, and similarly situated. If, in my own City, in the Union of the same size and importance of Keokuk, such public buildings as those contemplated by the petition were created, the sum total expended for that purpose would be vast. An individual deeply interested and responsible to pay his obligations at maturity, would be considered very unwise, to say the least, if he should prodigally appropriate his means to the erection of buildings and improvements which, though good enough in themselves, are not necessary. I can see no difference in the case of a Government. The same rule applies to both. I trust we shall all be able to agree that our first duty is the honest payment of every dollar of our national debt, and that in order to accomplish it, we must practice the most rigid economy in every department of the Government. Very truly, your friend,

GEORGE W. MCCRARY.

THE SPRING VALLEY MURDER.

Continuation of Proceedings—An Important Arrest Effected—Another Dead Body Found.

From Our Own Reporter.

SPRING VALLEY, N. Y., Thursday, March 18, 1869.

Spring Valley is a pleasant and growing village, on the line of the Piermont branch of the Erie Railway, 20 miles distant from New-York, and is eight miles back of the Hudson River from Nyack landing. The inhabitants comprise many of the oldest families of Rockland County, as well as a number of new-comers who transact business in New-York. That a murder could be perpetrated in their midst without the immediate detection of the perpetrator has excited their indignation, and prompted a concerted movement resulting in the engagement of the best and most indefatigable legal counsel and the most acute detectives to clear up the terrible mystery. From prudential motives the proceedings of the Coroner's inquest have been entirely withheld from the public, with the single exception of the statement furnished in the TIMES of yesterday. The various other rumors that had their source in the gossip of excited villagers were almost entirely incorrect. The statement that some female undergarments and gaiters were found upon the corpse, and that the body was "horribly cut and mangled," is altogether untrue. The wounds, with the exception of the lacerated fingers, were all on the head. An oaken stave lay on the ground near the corpse, and on fragments noticeable across the abdomen plainly intimated that the remains were borne on that stave. Footmarks of two persons, some three feet apart, also indicated that they carried the body from the woods, some 200 feet distant. There are other attendant circumstances, very, which may not yet be permitted to divulge, but very important facts not hitherto mentioned is, that the hat found over the face of the body is stained with blood inside, but is perfectly unstained or cut upon the outside; also, that neither pants nor shoes were found. The limbs were not rigid, but pliable at all joints, thus indicating the presence of alcoholic poison in the body, and creating the supposition that the unfortunate victim was dispatched in a drugged or intoxicated condition. What length of time elapsed between the commission of the murder and the discovery of the remains, is a disputed question.

The Coroner's inquest was continued on Wednesday, the night session being protracted until 1 o'clock the next morning. A large number of witnesses were then examined, but the testimony is as yet more voluminous than conclusive. Additional links, however, have been added to the chain of circumstances and new clues have been discovered. To-day warrants were issued and one important arrest was made. The prisoner was arraigned very searchingly, and a clue step was advanced toward the unfolding of the dreadful mystery. The authorities very wisely refuse to advertise their evidence to the public, withholding all particulars for the purpose of furthering the ends of justice. As yet no one has satisfactorily identified the remains, which are being preserved for that object. Those who may be able to add anything to the facts already known, will find Coroner W. E. SNOW at No. 7 Warren-street, New-York, to whom they should address themselves. No one is allowed to see the body unless seeking its identification; it is guarded night and day.

A reward of $2,000 is to be offered, and every possible effort made to discover the murderer.

A fresh horror, of a similar nature, however, was made known to-day. The dead body of ELIJAH SMITH, of this place, was discovered early yesterday morning lying prostrate in a roadside brooklet, between this place and New City. But three inches of water is at present in this stream, and it is supposed that he fell in an intoxicated condition with his face—as found—in the water, thereby choking to death. The Coroner's inquest in the murder case has been adjourned until next Tuesday.

[Translation.]

LIMA, Jan. 15, 1869.

To the Minister Plenipotentiary and Envoy Extraordinary of Peru, near the United States:

With the sad news of the earthquake of the 13th of November of last year, I received the news of the generous and opportune aid to the sufferers from the earthquakes in Peru and Bolivia. The part taken by the United States of America, through your agency, has been in character in all of the authority that was given to the Minister of Foreign Affairs, through your application in Quinin.

This Government has already had occasion to express its heartfelt gratitude to the American people for the sympathy they have shown in our misfortune, and for the generous assistance which they have afforded toward relieving them; and it gives me pleasure to repeat the same once again, and to all those who have contributed to the aforementioned subscription, and especially to Messrs. Brown Brothers & Co., Dabney, Morgan & Co., Duncan, Sherman & Co., R. G. Ferguson, Hunter & Dunham, E. Van Hoffman & Co., Fabbri & Chauncey, Baring Brothers & Co., Howland & Aspinwall, and L. Z. Grace, to whom you will please make known the contents of this note. Very truly yours,

Wm. H. Greeley on Cooperation.

An address was delivered, last evening, by Hon. HORACE GREELEY before the Third Union Cooperative Land and Building Society, at Cooperative Hall, No. 214 Bowery. The large hall was filled to overflowing. Mr. GREELEY said that, as rather an old socialist concerned in other days in many and earnest movements which had the same general tendency with this Society, he desired to speak first of the principle of cooperation—what it was and what it promised. After that he would endeavor to speak of its various applications. The principle of cooperation was essentially Republicanism applied to the sphere of industry. The old systems of society were in their essence monarchical, but he did not mean to speak of them with reproach. Those old modes belonged to the stage of human progress, which he trusted the world was now beginning to outgrow. He was to speak of what he had labored for and hoped for rather than of what had been attained. Cooperation was simply the agreement or concurrence of a number of persons to use their joint capital, each contributing his small means individually. Mr. GREELEY explained at length the nature of cooperation, and dwelt upon its success in other countries. He thought it should be in America though such enterprises had sometimes been mismanaged, there was good in them, and they should be supported.

Addresses were also made by Mr. PEARSALL and Mr. JOHN T. PRESSLEY, who presided, and others, after which the meeting adjourned.

A Physician Charged with Malpractice on a German Woman.

MAGDALENA PHILLIPS, the wife of a German saloon keeper, residing in Sixty-third-street, near Second-avenue, on Thursday, the 11th inst., went to the office of Dr. WOLF, No. 421 East Tenth-street, for medical advice. Her visit to the physician was made between the hours of 4 and 5 P. M., after which she returned home, and was taken with severe pains, supposed to result from hemorrhage of the womb. Dr. WOLF was sent for, and, according to the statement of Mr. PHILLIPS, removed something from the body of the patient. The first pains then ceased, but another kind were felt. Dr. WOLF was again sent for, and by his advice leeches were applied, which produced a cessation of the hemorrhage.

On Monday evening suspicions were entertained as to the conduct of Dr. WOLF, and another physician was summoned. He arrived about two hours before the decease of Mrs. PHILLIPS. This event occurred on Tuesday morning at 7 o'clock. Her death was preceded by partial delirious consciousness, and she stated that Dr. WOLF had given her two bottles of medicine without labels, also two prescriptions which he told her not to leave at the drug store when the ingredients were obtained. At the post-mortem examination, which was conducted by Drs. JOHN BEACH and TERRY, it appeared that the uterus had been impregnated, and the woman delivered of a child from four to five months old. The inquest has been postponed till next Tuesday morning. At the meeting Captain MOUNT will produce all further evidence. A warrant for the arrest of Dr. WOLF has been issued.

Probable Homicide.

Coroner HOLLINS was yesterday called to take the ante-mortem statement of CHARLES HORNUNG, a German tailor, 40 years of age, and living at No. 128 Essex-street, who is lying at his residence in a very critical condition from injuries received some time ago.

It appears that he was engaged in selling sewing machines, and a dispute arising between him and the owner of the machines, a fight ensued, during which HORNUNG was badly beaten about the head and received severe contusions on other parts of the body. At the time, no serious results were apprehended, and the affair being considered simply a matter of a few bruises no arrest was made, nor was any search instituted for the assailant. A change for the worse having taken place in HORNUNG, the attending physician being of opinion that his injuries may result fatally, the Police are now in active pursuit of the assailant. As they have an accurate description of his person, the arrest cannot be long delayed.

Sale of Oil-Paintings and Engravings.

An auction sale of about one hundred oil-paintings and proof engravings took place at Clinton Hall, Astor-place, last evening. There was a fair attendance, but the paintings sold at very moderate prices, many of them at very low figures. Three paintings which brought the high prices were: "La Peccia," elegant frame, held with miniature paintings and stones, AFTER OSMIO BOLZA, $860; "The Virgin on the Throne," after H. DEL SARTO, $800; "Portsmouth Harbor, England," with Spithead on left, line-of-battle ship at anchor, &c., $800. The collection, as a whole, embracing a large proportion of fine pictures that are generally seen combined together, sold at very low prices, varying from $5, $6 or $10 to $50 and $60 each. The engravings sold at low prices, about a dozen being dispersed of at from $11 to $20 each. The collection was dispersed of at about 9:30 P. M.

Company H, Forty-seventh Regiment.

The full-dress reception of E Company of the Forty-seventh Regiment, N. G. S. N. Y., at Washington Hall, Williamsburg, last evening, was a rechercha affair. The decorations exceeded anything of the kind that has been done in the Eastern District of Brooklyn. The original walls were entirely covered with the flags and festoons, and new gas branches were introduced, making the hall, for the time, a "home of the fairies." Among the distinguished guests were General J. V. HAGERDOLE, Adjutant-General W. J. IRWIN and staff of the Eleventh Brigade; General [illegible] of the Second Division, New-York; Col. [illegible] of the Second Brigade, Brooklyn; Col. WM. D. CORNELL, of Company A, and many others, engaged in receiving the guests, aided by Capt. DAVID BROWN, Sergeants JOHN D. BURNS and PRIVATE WASHINGTON K. GLOVER, and Lieut. SCHUTLER. The music was furnished by GARVILLA'S Seventh Regiment Band, which for the merits of the occasion. The array was a truly brilliant one, including much of the wealth, respectability and learning of the City of Churches. The Company appeared in the new and beautiful uniforms, the style being the same as that adopted by the Seventh Regiment. The order of dancing was not too long, and the selections appear to have been made with a proper regard to good taste and time. Every guest was delighted. Altogether Company E may justly lay proud of.

LOCAL NEWS IN BRIEF.

New-York.

The Law Institute of this City have determined to procure a marble bust of their late President, James E. Beaty, and have commissioned Judge BENJAMIN CLARKSON A. SEWARD, Hon. MILTON TIERNEY and EDWARD PATTERSON & Co. [illegible] for that purpose. Mr. PATTERSON has been appointed treasurer of the Committee, and is authorized to procure subscriptions for the object from the members of the Bar and the public.

A carpet-bag containing samples of all the revolvers, pistols and rifles manufactured by SMITH & WESSON, and also models of improvements that have been made in the manufacture of pistols and rifles for more than half a century, was stolen on Wednesday night from a small room between the United States Circuit and District Court rooms, in the United States Court Buildings, in Chambers-street. The contents of the carpet-bag were exhibited in a reference before Commissioner WHITE, who was taking testimony to report to the United States Circuit Court in a suit brought by SMITH & WESSON. Many influential gentlemen connected with railroad corporations assembled yesterday at the Morris and Essex Railroad Depot, Hoboken, for the purpose of testing the utility of the "patent electrical switch," the invention of Mr. HALL, which has been used for some time on railroads as a preventive of accidents resulting from misplaced switches. The system is quite simple and effective. An insulated wire is attached to the switch, connecting with an electric battery and a large gong at a station some distance off. It also connects with the usual signals. When a switch is misplaced, the electric spark runs from that point, and instantaneously communicates with a hammer which strikes on the gong with great power, so that a driver is warned of approaching danger by its sound. In the same way with draw bridges. The moment the draw is opened the gong sends forth its warning. The instrument has been used on the New-York and New-Haven and on the Central Road, and has proved effective.
